this special issue contributes to the debate on land grabbing as commons grabbing with a special focus on how the development of state institutions formal laws and regulations for agrarian development and compensations and voluntary corporate social responsibility crs initiatives have enabled the grabbing process it also looks at how these institutions and csr programs are used as development strategies of states and companies to legitimate their investments this special issue includes case studies from kenya morocco tanzania cambodia bolivia and ecuador analysing how these strategies are embedded into neo liberal ideologies of economic development we propose looking at james ferguson s notion of the anti politics machine 1990 that served to uncover the hidden political basis of state driven development strategies we think it is of interest to test the approach for analysing development discourses and csr policies in agrarian investments we argue based on a new institutional political ecology nipe approach that these legitimize the institutional change from common to state and private property of land and land related common pool resources which is the basis of commons grabbing that also grabbed the capacity for resilience of local people
