excerpt from graeco egyptian coffins masks and portraits the objects described in the following catalogue belong for the most part to the last stages of the history of mummy decoration in egypt they consist of those pieces in which the greek element is either predominant or strongly pronounced i have naturally not included everything which showed marks of greek influence for the change of style was gradual and part of the transitional matter will go more appropriately into another volume a separate publication of the greek portion of the series was advisable on practical grounds but everyone who has studied the subject will recognise that it is impossible to make a really satisfactory division of the material the masks and mummies which are published here cannot be rightly appreciated without some knowledge of the egyptian types from which they are descended about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works according to the defined canons of art technique a portrait should be above all a faithful representation of its model however this gallery of 1000 portraits illustrates how the genre has been transformed throughout history and has proven itself to be much more complex than a simple imitation of reality beyond exhibiting the skill of the artist the portrait must surpass the task of imitation as just and precise as it may be to translate both the intention of the artist as well as that of its patron without betraying either's wishes therefore these silent witnesses carefully selected in these pages reveal more than faces of historic figures or anonymous subjects they reveal a psychology more than an identity illustrate an allegory serve as political and religious propaganda and embody the customs of their epochs with its impressive number of masterpieces biographies and commentaries on works this book presents and analyses different portraits consequently exposing to the reader and to any art lover a reflection of the evolution of society and above all the upheavals of a genre that over 300 centuries of painting has shaped the history of art china is a country that is rich in antiquities but it is also a victim of looting that occurred during the period from the first opium war to the end of the japanese occupation 1840 1945 when innumerable cultural objects were lost overseas the chinese government insists on asserting its interest over its wrongfully removed cultural heritage and has sought for the return of lost cultural heritage by all means in accordance with relevant international conventions and chinese laws however securing the return has been and continues to be problematic little research has been done regarding the question as to whether china has a legal basis for recovery which is the first legal hurdle that china needs to get over in addition china does not have a legal basis for all cultural heritage taken during the period of 1840 1945 claims for return without a legal basis are usually silenced or at best discussed only but very rarely facilitated this book provides an answer for the return of chinese cultural heritage it examines the law contemporaneous to the removal of chinese cultural heritage and its application for this lack of a legal basis this book argues that a new customary international law is emerging according to which the interests of the states of origin in their wrongfully removed heritage should be prioritised this proposed customary rule supports the return of wrongfully removed heritage once this proposed customary rule is accepted it will provide a stronger argument not only for china but also for other states of origin with a similar dilemma including south korea egypt greece cambodia turkey peru and italy to recover their wrongfully removed heritage while dealing with a large pool of return cases this book is valuable to museums and art collectors in the event of buying and accepting art objects and settling recovery disputes with states of origin it will also be of interest to researchers academics policymakers and students in the fields of cultural heritage law international law international trade and human rights law
