in many schools and higher education institutions it has become common practice to share assessment criteria with students sometimes it is required for accountability purposes at other times criteria are used as a means to communicate expectations to students however the idea that explicit assessment criteria should be shared with students has been contested on the one hand research has shown that explicit criteria may positively affect student performance reduce their anxiety as well as support students use of self regulated learning strategies on the other hand there are fears that explicit criteria may have a restraining influence on students learning as well as limiting their autonomy and creativity there are also indications of students becoming more performance oriented as opposed to learning oriented when being provided with explicit assessment criteria taken together it is not fully understood under which circumstances it is productive for student learning to share explicit assessment criteria and under which circumstances it is not in particular empirical research on the proposed negative effects of sharing criteria with learners is limited and most fears voiced in the literature are based on individual experiences and anecdotal evidence in this book we therefore bring different perspectives on transparency in assessment together in order to further our understanding of how students are influenced by the use of explicit assessment criteria a deeper understanding of the influence of explicit assessment criteria on students understanding of criteria motivation and learning is equally imperative for future research and educational practice both of which need to go beyond individual opinions and convictions obedience from first to last explores the theological significance of the obedience of jesus christ in karl barth s theology it does this via a threefold consideration of first the nature of jesus incarnate obedience second the relation of that obedience to the obedience of the second triune person of the eternal son and third the effects jesus obedience has on our own obedience barth not only affirms the pivotal role jesus obedience has within the economy of salvation but by equating that obedience with that of the eternal son s barth gives jesus obedience a pre eminent place within the immanent being of godself the obedience of jesus christ is seen to have a co participatory role in god s determination of his own divine being that arises from the primordial act of divine election this notion bears on our understanding of freedom and obedience as divine freedom is expressed in divine obedience so it is with human freedom and human obedience
