China in the Tokugawa World 1992 this engaging book challenges the traditional notion that japan was an isolated nation cut off from the outside world in the early modern era this familiar story of seclusion argues master historian marius b jansen results from viewing the period solely in terms of japan s ties with the west at the expense of its relationship with closer asian neighbors taking as his focus the port of nagasaki and its thriving trade with china in the sixteenth through the nineteenth centuries jansen not only corrects this misperception but offers an important analysis of the impact of the china trade on japan s cultural economic and political life creating a vivid portrait of a city that lived on and for foreign trade the author details nagasaki s pivotal role in importing luxury goods for a growing japanese market whose elite wanted more of everything that ships from china could bring silk sugar and ginseng were among the cargoes brought to nagasaki as well as books that by the late tokugawa period signaled the dangers of western expansionism the junks from china brought people as well as goods and the author provides clear evidence of the influence of chinese expatriates and visitors on japanese religion law and art japan s intellectuals prided themselves on their full participation in the cultural milieu of the continental mainland and for them china represented an ideal land of sages and tranquility but gradually china came to represent instead a metaphor for the other as japan s quest for a national identity intensified among the japanese a new image of their nation was beginning to emerge a japan superior to asia in general and to china in particular

China in the Sun 1946 in a time where the usa seems frantic to maintain their world domination by funding a crusade for democracy it is easy to paint china as an enemy that needs to be kept in check but is world domination the right goal what about world peace and harmony for all people the greatest challenges facing humanity now are global in nature crossing countries and cultures the world doesn t need another religious or ideological battle such as democracy vs communism it needs all the citizens of our world but in particular our world leaders and advisors to truly lead in building empathy and mutual trust promoting cooperation over competition for the benefit of all humanity as such a greater understanding of china is no longer optional in our global village it is necessary if we want to tackle global challenges such as the covid 19 pandemic or face critical world issues such as climate change world peace and collaborative governance as china returns to its original path and reinstates itself as one of the key world leaders it demands to be treated with respect and as an equal china is not our enemy their confucian roots are strongly grounded in building harmonious human relationships and we in the west must build our empathy and knowledge so we can see more shades of grey in this complicated world we all share this planet and its future destiny together and confrontational western thinking will only lead to war this macroscopic view of chinese civilization and cultural development will help western educated readers better interpret world events through a broader and deeper understanding of chinese ways of thinking and behaving china s historical trajectory and trends current developments and the context behind and around them the authors suggest that we need to view the chinese way as complementary instead of focusing on the differences we should spend our energy and resources improving our world instead of minimizing others to maintain superiority each of us can change the world for the better let s replace us versus them thinking with more we and more trust as mutual understanding and tolerance will enable all of us as humans on earth to live in greater harmony with each other and with ourselves
