Youth and Employment in Sub-Saharan Africa

2005-01-15

it is widely acknowledged that youth unemployment is one of the most critical challenges facing countries in sub saharan africa this volume brings together an eminent group of international scholars to analyse the extent and complex nature of this joblessness and offer a set of evidence based policy choices that could contribute to solving the problem in the short and long run part i reviews the existing literature on youth unemployment and underemployment in sub saharan africa from microeconomic and macroeconomic perspectives while part ii goes on to present detailed country studies of ethiopia ghana kenya and south africa these studies offer a deep understanding of the situation on the ground and consider country specific solutions throughout the book it is argued that the standard ilo definition of unemployment is too narrow to correctly portray employment situations in sub saharan africa several alternative measures of unemployment are presented which show that joblessness is far more pervasive than commonly assumed in the literature this volume will be of interest to academics and policy makers involved in african development

The Social Impacts of Mine Closure in South Africa

this book investigates the relationship between mining mine closure and housing policy in post apartheid south africa using concepts from new institutional economics and evolutionary governance theory mine closures present a major challenge to the mining industry and governments with this being particularly noticeable in the global south this book argues that the dependencies created by the mining industry and mine housing policies while a mine is operational cause serious societal problems when it closes to demonstrate this the book applies the concepts of place attachment asset based development and social disruption conceptually the book challenges the view that place attachment and asset based development are the most appropriate and often the only policy responses in mining areas in south africa the mining industry and the government have created comprehensive housing programmes linked to homeownership to promote place attachment stability and wealth among mine workers these programmes do not consider the disruption that mine closure might bring the book challenges the blind application during boom periods of policies which create long term dependencies that are difficult to manage when a mine closes this book will be of interest to students and scholars researching the social impacts of mining and the extractive industries social geography and sustainable development as well as policymakers and practitioners working with mine closure or social impact assessments

this volume brings together many of south africa s leading scholars of education and covers the full range of south african schooling from financing and policy reform to in depth discussions of literacy numeracy teacher development and curriculum change the book moves beyond a historical analysis and provides an inside view of the questions south african scholars are now grappling with are there different and preferential equilibria we have not yet thought of or explored and if so what are they in practical terms how does one get to a more equitable distribution of teachers resources and learning outcomes while decidedly local these questions resonate throughout the developing world south africa today is the most unequal country in the world the richest 10 of south africans lay claim to 65 of national income and 90 of national wealth this is the largest 90 10 gap in the world and one that is reflected in the schooling system two decades after apartheid it is still the case that the life chances of most south african children are determined not by their ability or the result of hard work and determination but instead by the colour of their skin the province of their birth and the wealth of their parents looking back on almost three decades of democracy in south africa it is this stubbornness of inequality and its patterns of persistence that demands explanation justification and analysis this is a landmark book on basic education in south africa an essential volume for those interested in learning outcomes and their inequality in south africa the various chapters present conceptually and empirically sophisticated analyses of learning outcomes across divisions of race class and place the book brings together the wealth of decades of research output from top quality researchers to explore what has improved what has not and why prof lant pritchett harvard university there is much wisdom in this collection from many of the best education analysts in south africa no surprise that they conclude that without a large and sustained expansion in well trained teachers early childhood education and adequate school resources south africa will continue to sacrifice its people s future to maintaining the privileges of the few prof martin carnoy stanford university altogether one can derive from this very valuable volume if not an exact blueprint for the future then certainly at least a crucial and evidence based itinerary for the next few steps dr luis crouch rti

Leadership Approaches to Negotiate Challenges in a Changing Education Landscape

the argumentative point of departure of this scholarly book is the common conviction of specialists in the field of education in south africa that the national education system is not at a satisfactory level in both the academic and the public discourse such allegations are made and frequently stronger adjectives than non satisfactory are used results of international test series in which south africa has participated such as the 2015 timss tests confirm the negative verdicts found in the public and scholarly discourse this book aims to argue that although the lack of performance could be attributed to a multiplicity of factors one factor that can make a difference in the achievement levels obtained by learners in schools is leadership the book demonstrates that a particular problem of both the scholarly and the public discourse on education in south africa is an overtone of defeatism or resignation blaming all ills in the education system and educational institutions on historical legacies and or contextual factors such as socio economic deprivation in the catchment areas of schools or poor resources and infrastructure this collected work was inspired by a recently published spate of articles on top performing schools including top performing schools in rural communities in which it was demonstrated that good leadership can overcome such contextual and other challenges the book unpacks the issue of leadership in south african schools from a variety of perspectives thus contributing to the development of the scholarly discourse on educational leadership in south africa the target audience of the book is scholars of educational leadership the research reported in the chapters draw on a wide range of methodologies including empirical survey research questionnaires and interviews critical literature surveys and the comparative method

besides the ongoing concern with the epistemological and theoretical hegemony of the west in african academic practice the book aims at understanding how knowledge is produced and controlled through the interplay of the politics of knowledge and current intellectual discourses in universities in africa in this regard the book calls for african universities to relocate from the position of object to subject in order to gain a form of liberated epistemological voice more responsive to the social and economic complexities of the continent in itself this is a critical exposé of contemporary practices in knowledge advancement in the continent broadly the book addresses the following questions how can african universities reinvent knowledge production and dissemination in the face of the dominant eurocentricism so pervasive and characteristic of academic practice in africa to enhance their relevance to the contexts in which they operate how can such change particularly at knowledge production and distribution levels be undertaken without falling into an intellectual and discursive ghettoization in the global context what then is the role of academics policy makers and curriculum and program designers in dealing with biases and distortions to integrate policies knowledge and pedagogy that reflect current cultural diversity both local and global against this backdrop while some contributions in this book argue that emancipatory epistemic voice in african universities is not yet born or it is struggling with little success many dissenting voices charge that if africans do not take responsibility and construct knowledge strategies for their own emancipation who will research for educational change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident the question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice in the first part of the book four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a south african mathematics classroom in the second part each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms combining two discourses that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education educational research and classroom practices this book will be key reading for postgraduates researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education education research teacher education and classroom practice it will also appeal to teacher educators practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research

Tackling Environmental Health Inequalities in a South African City?

covid 19 has become one of the most severe issues dominating discussions on the agendas of states globally and across the african continent since its emergence in 2019 the covid 19 pandemic has regrettably brought into sharp focus the continued multiple and intersecting forms of discrimination faced by women and girls in africa because of their intersecting identities yet paradoxically although african women are disproportionately affected by the crisis they are largely invisible in the responses several african states and governments have taken different policy measures in response to the pandemic these responses have taken different dimensions including shutting down economies imposition of lockdowns coercive quarantine measures with police enforcement and criminal consequences for offenders violating these rules unfortunately these responses have reinforced and amplified women s disproportionate disadvantage and gender inequalities in africa against this backdrop this book asks the intersectional question about women s experiences during the covid 19 pandemic in africa applying an intersectional human rights lens involves questioning how the intersecting identities that african women embody affect their experiences of the covid 19 pandemic
