we are in crisis as a society we have never been less connected the internet and globalisation fuel ignorance and anger while the disconnect between people s reality and perceived identities has never been greater karl marx outlined the idea of a material base and politico cultural superstructure according to this formula a material reality wealth income occupation determined your politics leisure habits tastes and how you made sense of the world today the importance of material deprivation in terms of threats to life health and prosperity are as acute as ever but the identities apparently generated by these realities are increasingly detached from material circumstances at the same time different identities are needlessly conflated through a process of reeling off a list of isms and phobias and are lumped together as though these groups all somehow have something in common with one another th is process is not just inappropriate but obscures the specific nature of problems being faced in the identity myth david swift covers the four different kinds of identity most susceptible to this trend class race sex and age he considers how the boundaries of identities are policed and how diverse versions of the same identity can be deployed to different ends ultimately it is not that identities are simply more complex than they appear but that there are more important commonalities in a powerful call to arms swift argues that we must unite against these identity myths and embrace our differences to beat inequality
