for the great majority on both sides of the abortion debate the idea of a pro life feminist is the ultimate contradiction in terms abortion has become so central to feminist thinking that women who affirm their belief in both women s empowerment and the inalienable right to life can find themselves viewed with suspicion and hostility from both sides yet the author of this book is indeed a pro life feminist and her insightful analysis of contemporary issues can provide the basis for common ground between those defending human rights this book unashamedly calls mainstream feminists journalists and western politicians to account for their silence and in some cases vocal justification of the persecution of women because of an absolutist loyalty to abortion it asks uncomfortable questions to those who claim to believe in women s empowerment where is their passionate outrage when chinese women are forcibly aborted and sterilised where is their concern for the thousands of baby girls killed by abortion every year because their lives are held as worthless simply for being female what about the thousands of women used as surrogates for wealthy western couples treated as chattels and denied their most basic human rights but the book also tackles difficult issues for the pro life side the need for a sensitive realistic approach to problematic pregnancies and the importance of confronting the continued exploitation and abuse of women within a sexualised society pro life feminism is not only possible it is vital if the complex struggles facing women are to be adequately met the abolition of woman is a rallying cry to feminists to stand with the pro life movement fighting to build a society in which women are equal and every human life is protected this book traces the intersection of radical feminism composition and print culture in order to address a curious gap in feminist composition studies the manifesto writing collaborative action taking radical feminists of the 1960s and 1970s long before contemporary debates over essentialism radical feminist groups questioned both what it was to be a woman and to perform womanhood and a key part of that questioning took the form of very public very contentious texts by such writers and groups as shulamith firestone the redstockings and witch the women s international terrorist conspiracy from hell rhodes explores how these radical women s texts have been silenced in contemporary rhetoric and composition and compares their work to that of contemporary online activists finding that both point to a network literacy that blends ever shifting identities with ever changing technologies in order to take action ultimately rhodes argues the articulation of radical feminist textuality can benefit both scholarship and classroom as it situates writers as rhetorical agents who can write resist and finally act within a network of discourses and identifications
