and trends recent research innovation advances and on the field experiences related to e government e governance e infrastructure and e business with a focus on developing countries it is in fact widely accepted that ict infrastructure and e services are key drivers for development well being and improved quality of life this was also highlighted by kofi annan former un general secretary in 2002 while ict cannot address all of africa s problems they can do much to place africa on a firmer industrial footing and strengthen the continent s human resources with training that leads to sustainable livelihoods africomm 2009 was organized in three tracks two of them organized as research tracks on information and communication infrastructures and on e services for developing countries and one policy and governance track contri tions to the first two tracks were selected by peer review while the policies session involved key stakeholders in the areas of ict development and policy making who submitted position papers participation and selection of papers for the tracks was quite good as the price of servers comes down to the level of desktop pcs many small and medium sized businesses are forced to provide their own server setup maintenance and support without the high dollar training enjoyed by their big corporation counterparts upgrading and repairing servers is the first line of defense for small and medium sized businesses and an excellent go to reference for the experienced administrators who have been asking for a reference guide like this one for a long time
