this is the only narrative ever written about jesus by actual eyewitnesses the beloved disciple jesus s wife mary and the gifted scholar author john the presbyter it is also one of the world s greatest works of literature modelled on classical greek theatre and philosophy but soaring above them in its own new genre it was itself less successfully imitated later the original work was never completed before the author was arrested and sent into exile for safekeeping his friends sent the unfinished manuscript to far away pontus but even there the hand of rome nearly destroyed it a foolish young man named marcion rescued it and had the sense to put it into the hands of the presbyter s spiritual heirs and they published it while the manuscript languished in pontus some pages got lost or disordered and after publication various editors changed the manuscript again and again to suit the changing doctrines of the newly established christian religion even adding spurious new material simply put the gospel as we have it today is a mess a beautiful and inspiring mess but a mess nonetheless this translation undoes the damage to restore not the unfinished original text but the masterpiece john the presbyter sought to compose by so doing we gain a sharply drawn first hand account of jesus here we encounter a vividly real man sent by god to urge humanity to accept god s will he is described in a narrative the best evidence that this book characterizes the spirit of buddhism correctly can be found in the welcome it has received throughout the entire buddhist world it has even been officially introduced in buddhist schools and temples of japan and ceylon the eminent feature of the work is its grasp of the difficult subject and the clear enunciation of the doctrine of the most puzzling problem of tman as taught in buddhism so far as we have examined the question of tman ourselves from the works of the southern canon the view taken by dr paul carus is accurate and we venture to think that it is not opposed to the doctrine of northern buddhism
