this is a consolidation of both of my previous publications and a revision of my autobiography portrayed in a more explicit manner i present more details as to how with my pronounced limited academic ability i managed to utilize both positive and detrimental factors from my early childhood to my advantage in order to accomplish my ultimate success in life i present my usual witty satire in discussing the many hardships and hurdles i encountered during my seemingly impossible educational path my eventual goal was also undoubtedly attributed to my life long ability of being able to overachieve and outperform along with these factors and endless battles with bipolar illness and gross obesity i managed to convert these deterrents into an incredibly advantageous situation as i explain how some of the characteristics resulting from my illness actually helped to sustain my drive to success even one of my decisions to quit medical school turned out to be a very important impetus in my eventual success i eventually served thirty years as a rural family practice physician and fourteen years as coroner of a mid sized louisiana parish i strive to add and discuss more pertinent information regarding my life experiences that was previously erroneously but unintentionally omitted and address many of the questions that arose unanswered along with relating more gruesome and mischievous incidents including a more recent mishap that left me with a slight handicap i discuss the countless problems that i faced while treating my patients relate my numerous conflicts with various governmental agencies and organizations and detail many unusual cases that helped mold my life and influenced my decisions i also reveal even more of my innermost secrets and confessions during my practice and i elaborate further on my bipolar illness and its impact on my life i feel that this book is a must read for bipolar individuals who should have no problems identifying with me for most of my generation generation x there is only one question when did your parents split our lives have been framed by the answer ask us we remember everything in this powerful poignant and often laugh out loud funny memoir susan gregory thomas reflects on that life defining question and its answer through a lens imprinted by memory and sharpened by time raised in berkeley thomas grew up in a seemingly stable household but when the family moved east when she was twelve her father a charming alcoholic ran off with his secretary and her mother collapsed thomas and her younger brother joined the ubiquitous flocks of 1980s latchkey kids collateral damage in their parents wars sustaining private injuries they would try to self treat throughout adolescence and adulthood when thomas became a wife and mother in her early thirties she made a fierce promise she would never let her own children know the scorched earth of divorce it was a vow shared by many of her peers who in reaction to the divorces of the 1970s and 80s sought out marriages based on deeper friendships and more genuine partnerships than those of previous generations so thomas was stunned when after sixteen years with the man she considered her best friend she found her marriage coming to an end not only did the divorce reopen all the old wounds but she would now have to contend with the aftershocks affecting her two young daughters in spite of everything is an astounding bright and brilliantly told account of a mother s fight to protect her children s world and to make sense of her own troubled past and the culture of divorce in which she and generation x were raised interwoven with original hilarious insights on divorce and parenthood thomas s eye opening gut wrenching ultimately optimistic story holds a mirror up to a whole generation they say there are three things of utmost importance to human beings health love and money and that the lack of one of those things is enough to throw your life into a storm they also say that most marriages face only one major crisis but if it comes early in your marriage you may have another while these sayings may or may not be true katie hornor has had at least one crisis in each of those three areas and as she s learned to praise the lord for his goodness both in and out of the storms she s began to see a pattern praise brought healing where there would have been anger and bitterness healing allowed her to share her story with others giving them hope for god s healing in their lives as well praise healing and hope regardless of your story there is only one who can heal your heart teach it to praise and transform your heart and home you will find him and the power of his truth presented in every page of this riveting 4 week bible study

My Life - In Spite of Myself! 1873

as a lifelong christian sarah wetzel tried everything she knew to grow holier and happier but as a young mom laboring alongside her missionary husband high in the andes mountains she came to the painful realization that her spiritual fruit basket was still empty and her faith was dying on the vine where is the peace love and joy she wondered where are the souls won for christ why am i entertaining sinful thoughts sarah railed against god and tried to become an agnostic but at critical times god seemed to deposit precisely the right book into sarah s hands she gleaned wisdom from scripture and from the timeless biographies of heroes and heroines of the faith including keith green isobel kuhn joni eareckson tada and catherine marshall and came to understand god s upside down and backward plan for her spiritual growth he wants me to see the truth about myself not to depress me only to show me the truth about jesus the longer i live the more of my sin i see and the greater is my love and appreciation for jesus little by little i am growing down sarah wetzel in growing down you ll travel across three continents and span the dog eared pages of sarah s beloved books to discover that it is only when we adopt a continuous posture of repentance that we experience the heart changing sweetness of jesus compassion and transformation by his grace
