Public Relations and Social Theory 2009-03-30 in this study professor kelly analyzes dante s understanding of the meanings of tragedy and comedy in his undisputed works especially the de vulgari eloquentia and the comedia he finds that dante s criteria concerned subject matter and style not emotions like happiness and sorrow or plot movement from one mood to another or humor or the lack of it he considered vergil s aeneid and his own lyric poems to be tragedies because of their sublime subjects and their use of elevated style and vocabulary he considered the inferno along with the purgatorio and the paradiso to be a comedy because of the range of subjects and styles dante s commentators in contrast tended to have a plot based understanding of these genres and they attributed similar views to dante himself on the basis of both content and style kelly concludes that the epistle to cangrande is not by dante except possibly for the first three paragraphs and therefore ascribes it to pseudo dante it was not compiled as we have it until the last quarter of the fourteenth century but it incorporated an earlier anonymous accessus to the comedia this accessus drew heavily on guido da pisa s commentary and it in turn was used by boccaccio

2016-07 to understand properly the use of propaganda it is necessary to move beyond the conventional largely descriptive treatments that have been the scholarly norm and to move deeply into a sustained theoretical analysis of the concept in terms of its primary cognitive and ethical deficits through a sequential consideration of the epistemology ethics and metaphysics of propaganda that is one that emerges from a historical review of theories and definitions of the subject author stanley b cunningham provides a radical new window on a much discussed discipline he aims to secure a concept of propaganda that reflects the complexity and sophistication of contemporary mass persuasion practices while avoiding the trivializations and cliches that mark much of propaganda scholarship utilizing an assortment of philosophical analyses and arguments cunningham contends that the culture of propaganda is primarily and originally rooted in a wide range of epistemological disservices that indeed propaganda is neither ethically neutral nor indeterminate and that its lack of ethics constitutes part of its very definition eschewing the methodology of social science this radical study represents the first ever systematic and philosophically structured approach in the 80 year history of propaganda analysis
