this book provides an up to date account of the many processes shaping and transforming rural space in various parts of the world the various case studies focus on the multi functionality of the rural world and the driving forces behind it the book demonstrates that rural areas are no longer simply characterized by an agricultural economy and instead accommodate multiple complementary activities it also touches upon two major changes that have taken place the first is the process of rurbanization which has led to the clear distinction between town and countryside becoming blurred urban traits have penetrated rural areas and rural traits have invaded towns the second change is that rural areas are increasingly seen as multi functional providers not only of food and other natural resources but also locations for the generation of renewable energy wind farms solar farms biogas and regions for the preservation of biodiversity these transformations have resulted in a new understanding and self image of rural areas and their populations the authorship of place is the first monograph dedicated to the study of the politics history aesthetics and practices of location shooting for taiwanese mainland chinese and coproduced art cinemas shot in rural communities since the late 1970s dennis lo argues that rural location shooting beyond serving aesthetic and technical needs constitutes practices of cultural survival in a region beset with disruptive and disorienting social changes including rapid urbanization geopolitical shifts and ecological crises in response to these social changes auteurs like hou xiaoxian jia zhangke chen kaige and li xing engaged in location shooting to transform sites of film production into symbolically meaningful places of collective memories and aspirations these production practices ultimately enabled auteurs to experiment with imagining taiwanese mainland chinese and cross strait communities in novel and contentious ways deftly guiding readers on a cross strait tour of prominent shooting locations for the new chinese cinemas this book shows how auteurs sought out their disappearing cultural heritage by reenacting lived experiences of nation building homecoming and cultural salvage while shooting on location this was an especially daunting task when auteurs encountered the shooting locations as spaces of unresolved historical social and geopolitical contestations tensions which were only intensified by the impact of filmmaking on rural communities this book demonstrates how these complex circumstances surrounding location shooting were pivotal in shaping both representations of the rural on screen as well as the production communities institutions and industries off screen informed by cutting edge perspectives in cultural geography and media anthropology the authorship of place both revises chinese language film history and theorizes groundbreaking approaches for investigating the cultural politics of film authorship and production this extraordinary book discusses the uses of location shooting in films by contemporary taiwanese and mainland chinese directors ranging from li xing to jia zhangke it highlights the ways in which place memory and identity stances respond to social changes and geopolitical disparities in a world full of uncertainty the argument about the imaginary homeland as an experienced cinematic reality only renders it more urgent and universally relatable ping hui liao university of california san diego the authorship of place is certainly a welcome intervention into the study of chinese cinemas and their auteurs that further contributes to the wider study of location shooting as well as cultural geographies and place based imaginaries of film it is rare to find a book dealing with space place in and around cinema that is this inventive and nuanced in its methodologies stephanie deboer indiana university the tradition of british realism has changed dramatically over the last 20 years where films by directors such as duane hopkins joanna hogg andrea arnold shane meadows and clio barnard have suggested a markedly poetic turn this new realism rejects the instrumentalism and didacticism of filmmakers like ken loach in favour of lyrical and often ambiguous encounters with place where the physical processes of lived experience interacts with the rhythms of everyday life taking these 5 filmmakers as case studies this book seeks to explore in depth this new tradition of british cinema and in the process it reignites debates over realism that have concerned scholars for decades geography of education sets out the scope of this emergent interdisciplinary field it illustrates the essential affinity of geographical and educational studies by emphasising the geographical factors influencing formal education systems and other forms of knowledge transfer colin brock begins by arguing the theoretical synergy that exists between the nature of both geography and educational studies as disciplines this is then exemplified by an analysis of the emergence of systems of schooling under the influence of religious political and economic forces the author also considers informal and non formal modes of education and argues that the huge diversity of such provision creates a rich resource for research into geographies of education in the final chapters the author turns his attention to the role of cyberspace which has its own geography in learning and considers education as a form of humanitarian response to issues of environmental sustainability by bringing together a wide range of themes and topics relating to both education and geography colin brock argues that the geographical approach should inform the evolution of all types of educational provision around the world
