volume is dedicated to john woodhouse on his seventieth birthday and concludes with a bibliography of his writings. In this volume, the author looks at dozens of life stories probing at the differences between biographies of men and women, prevailing stereotypes about women's lives and roles, questions about what is public and private, and the hazy margins between autobiography, biography, and other genres. From coming of age under poverty and the looming threat of racial violence to preaching from the Ebenezer pulpit for forty years, King Sr candidly reveals his life inside the civil rights movement, illustrating the profound influence he had on his son. Born in 1899 to a family of sharecroppers in Stockbridge, Georgia, Martin Luther King Sr came of age under the looming threat of violence at the hands of white landowners. Growing up, he witnessed his family being crushed by the weight of poverty and racism and escaped to Atlanta to answer the calling to become a preacher. Before engaging in acts of political dissent or preaching at Ebenezer Baptist Church, where he would remain for more than four decades, King Sr earned high school and college diplomas while working double shifts as a truck driver. He won the heart of his future wife, Alberta Bunch Williams. King Sr recalls the struggles and joys of his journey: the pain of leaving his parents and seven siblings on the family farm; the triumph of winning voting rights for blacks in Atlanta; and the feelings of fatherly pride and anxiety as he watched his son put his life in danger at the forefront of the civil rights movement. Originally published in 1980, Daddy King is an unexpected and poignant memoir. There are two men I am supposed to hate: one is a white man, the other is black, and both are serving time for having committed murder. James Earl Ray is a prisoner in Tennessee, charged with killing my son. Marcus Chenault was institutionalized as deranged after shooting my wife to death. I don't hate either one. There is no time for that, and no reason either. Nothing that a man does takes him lower than when he allows himself to fall so far as to hate anyone. The Reverend Martin Luther King Sr. In Daddy King, the most comprehensive, the most thoroughly researched, and documented, the most scholarly of the biographies of Martin Luther King Jr., Henry Steele Commager, Philadelphia
