in writing ethnographic fieldnotes robert m emerson rachel i fretz and linda l shaw present a series of guidelines suggestions and practical advice for creating useful fieldnotes in a variety of settings demystifying a process that is often assumed to be intuitive and impossible to teach using actual unfinished notes as examples the authors illustrate options for composing reviewing and working fieldnotes into finished texts they discuss different organizational and descriptive strategies and show how transforming direct observations into vivid descriptions results not simply from good memory but from learning to envision scenes as written a good ethnographer they demonstrate must learn to remember dialogue and movement like an actor to see colors and shapes like a painter and to sense moods and rhythms like a poet this new edition reflects the extensive feedback the authors have received from students and instructors since the first edition was published in 1995 as a result they have updated the race class and gender section created new sections on coding programs and revising first drafts and provided new examples of working notes an essential tool for budding social scientists the second edition of writing ethnographic fieldnotes will be invaluable for a new generation of researchers entering the field addiction treatment is an ethnography that compares two types of residential drug free treatment programs religious faith based programs and science based secular programs although these programs have originated from significantly different ideological bases in examining the day to day operations of each daniel e hood concludes that they are far more alike than they are different drug free treatment today whether in secular or religious form is little more than a remnant of the temperance movement it is a warning to stop using drugs at its best treatment provides practical advice and support for complete abstinence at its worst it demeans users for a form of behavior that is not well understood and threatens death if they do not stop hood argues that there is no universal agreement on what addiction is and that drug abuse is little more than a catch all term of no specific meaning used to condemn behavior that is socially unacceptable through extensive participatory observations intimate life history interviews and informal conversations with residents and staff hood shows how both programs use the same basic techniques of ideological persuasion mutual witnessing methods of social control discourse deprivation and the same proposed zero tolerance abstinent lifestyle christian living vs right living as they endeavor to transform clients from addicts to citizens or from sinners to disciples
