Analyzing A Common Word Between Us Muslims and You Christians

2011-04-26 in recent peace initiative a common word in muslim christian relations emphasis on the way forward between islam and christianity has been a frantic call to love of god and love of neighbor this call argued in this book provokes rival and parallel logic in the concepts of monotheism between christian religious leaders and scholars on the one hand and islamic religious leaders and scholars on the other using in places the framework of critical discourse analysis cda the author analyzes some text extracts from a common word in order to expose the underlying problems of ideologies dichotomies identity constructions and orthodoxy claims that are associated with the islamic tawhid and christian trinity drawing from various conferences and workshops convened by both religious communities as well as some social scientist insights this book finds authentic communication in muslim christian relations grounded in recognition and acceptance of the differences between islam and christianity recognizing the ideological issues in the usage of the appositional pronouns us muslims and you christians as suggesting dichotomy the author suggests rather the education of both muslims and christians starting from the kindergarten on the religion and beliefs of the other and to re interpret and revise conflicting qur anic and biblical issues pertaining to muslim christian relations

New Beginning in US-Muslim Relations 2016-06-01 this book carries out a comparative study of the us response to popular uprisings in the middle east as an evaluation of president barack obama s foreign policy commitments in 2009 obama publicly pledged a new beginning in us muslim relations causing eager expectation of a clear shift in us foreign policy after the election of the 44th president of the united states however the achievement of such a shift was made particularly difficult by the existence of multiple and sometimes conflicting us interests in the region which influenced the obama administration s response to the popular uprisings in five muslim majority countries egypt bahrain yemen libya and syria after providing a detailed analysis of the traditional features of both us foreign policy rhetoric and practice this book turns its focus to the obama administration s response to the 2011 arab awakening to determine whether obama s foreign policy has indeed brought about a new beginning in us muslim relations

Hate You Always 2023-05-26 this is a story of a woman who is bilingual and bicultural after college she literally bulldozed her way to higher rungs on the corporate hierarchy in a male dominated business environment of advertising in japan she has her stories of how she got there giving tips on how women trying to rise higher on the corporate ladder where not just glass ceilings exist but concrete ceilings she also describes her observations on the cultural political and economic differences and upheavals of the recent times as well as developments between the us and japan and her observations of other countries in europe south america australia new zealand and the asian countries as far as india countries where she traveled on business and her vacations with her husband and how she is today when she decided to become a writer after she turned sixty five she has shown that there is life after retirement that there are other ways to pursue development of a second career though pessimistic at times she always relied on her optimism to achieve fulfillment the book is full of hope both yet unachieved and those achieved

Being Human, Being Migrant 2013-10-30 this paper investigates the impact of political interventions made by beijing and taipei in recent years on the development of cross straits economic relations the study finds little evidence that either the missile firings carried out by beijing in 1995 and 1996 or the mainland policy review conducted by taipei since 1996 has slowed down the growth of trade and investment activities between mainland china and taiwan in fact the trade dependence ratios for the two economies have continued to increase since 1995 although the level of taiwans committed investment in the mainland has dropped considerably in recent years it has moved largely in line with the general trend of total fdi in china the synchronism between taiwan investment and other foreign investment suggests that the taiwan investors like other foreign investors responded mainly to macroeconomic conditions and policies in the mainland rather than to the directives from the taiwan authorities when they made their investment decisions this is due to the fact that the economic logic of pursuing cross straits economic activities is so powerful that taipei s restrictive policy toward investment in the mainland has often been ignored or diluted by the taiwanese private business community

Heaven, Hell, and in Between 2013-08 the issue of international antitrust enforcement is high on the agenda for both developed and developing countries bilateral cooperation between antitrust agencies in particular the european commission and us agencies is the focus of this new work it first shows how bilateral cooperation was developed as a response to the limits of the unilateral and extraterritorial application of national competition laws and how it has evolved from an instrument initially designed to avoid conflicts into a tool aimed at coordinating joint investigations of international competition cases it then considers how bilateral cooperation could be used optimally by analysing two forms of advanced cooperation the exchange of confidential information and positive comity which is the only satisfactory answer competition law can provide to market access cases it shows that the use of such instruments is limited by significant legal and political obstacles even in the context of the exemplary ec us relationship the book therefore argues that the efficient use of bilateral cooperation will be limited to a small number of well established competition agencies if international anticompetitive practices are to be efficiently addressed by an increasingly large and heterogeneous group of competition agencies horizontal cooperation between antitrust agencies must be complemented by a multilateral and supranational solution going beyond proposals currently put forward the book concludes that only the wto and its dispute settlement system could provide the basis for such a system
