the biography reveals aspects of the tapestry of the life of one who has truly consecrated his life to the service of the lord hugh walpole was praised for this 1921 novel for his distinctively vivid characters and london setting it was greeted as a welcome departure for the popular writer being part satire and part fairy tale in this novel young henry trenchard and his sister millicent are ready to confront a post wwi world torn by rapid change and defined by conflicts with an older generation it was even happening back then represented by sir charles duncombe this novel was written in the inter war period of the 1920's and is set in london during this period long established social norms were rapidly being broken down young men came back from the war demanding employment and change not the least the reduction of the drinking age from 21 to 18 their stand was if we can die for our country at 18 then surely we should be allowed to order a pint of beer in addition during the war years 1914 to 1918 women were employed in large numbers in factories and offices and proved they could hold their own in a man's environment with more disposable income they demanded more freedom from their victorian and edwardian parents as well as greater independence which led to a period known as the roaring twenties this period gave rise to the flappers and novelty dances like the breakaway and charleston being born a decade of prosperity and freedom was ended with the lindy hop and of course the wall street crash of 1929 about the author sir hugh seymour walpole a 20th century english novelist had a large and varied output between 1909 and 1941 he wrote thirty six novels five volumes of short stories two original plays and three volumes of memoirs his range included disturbing
