poetry matt shears s new chapbook of poems 10 000 wallpapers is a phenomenal hybrid that borrows from many genres and operates on many levels it s fun experimental mythic mealy mouthed and unprotected sonically it s flabbergasting but never flabby thematically it s indefinable but refined self reflexive and aware but awkward as a first kiss or a first kill it operates almost as a misheard fable traveling from ice age to ave c a place where masque meets western where the renaissance slips into its finest greek to watch a dreamy commedia dell arte production it s a place where heroes come unhinged their singing severed from our fullest judgment by lost or destroyed pages or who perhaps are being unsung themselves by a culture separating itself at its seams in the end it s a joyride or an open letter to a mastodon from an endangered element or each of us emptied on an open page like some beautiful thing in life destroying diagrams eugenie brinkema brings the insights of her radical formalism to bear on supremely risky terrain the ethical extremes of horror and love through close readings of works of film literature and philosophy she explores how diagrams grids charts lists abecedaria toroids tempos patterns colors negative space lengths increments and thresholds attest to formal logics of torture and cruelty violence and finitude friendship and eros debt and care beginning with a wholesale rethinking of the affect of horror orienting it away from entrenched models of feeling toward impersonal schemes and structures brinkema moves outward to consider the relation between objects and affects humiliation and metaphysics genre and the general bodily destruction and aesthetic generation geometry and scenography hatred and value love and measurement and ultimately the tensions hazards and speculative promise of formalism itself replete with etymological meditations performative typography and lyrical digressions life destroying diagrams is at once a model of reading without guarantee and a series of generative experiments in the writing of aesthetic theory the salem witch trials and the many narratives based on them both contemporaneous and subsequent discussions have had a powerful influence on the american national psyche informing the nation s political debates and propelling its fears perhaps one of the major reasons for the importance of the trials is how they conceive of and present a narrative of danger the horror grows in and seems to threaten not just the body politic but perhaps more importantly the domestic sanctuary the home and hearth become a contested ground where good and evil fight for the souls of the inhabitants or an infection that threatens to spread to other homes and eventually the entire community the fear of witchcraft or demonic possession reveals not just a religious mania but also a level of misogyny much has been made of the connections between witchcraft accusations and midwifery homeopathy and other usually female pursuits the link between midwifery and witchcraft is especially interesting here however as it suggests an anxiety linked to notions of creation and procreation this book proposes a link between the fears of usurped procreation elicited by the trials and fears of misdirected or usurped creativity in many gothic stories the authors imagine their literary creations as children who have been transformed by malignant forces much as the puritans of 1692 feared that the devil was transforming their actual children the home in the gothic story becomes a warped version of the sacred domestic space of sentimental literature and it transforms from refuge to place of terror the authors examined here include nathaniel hawthorne louisa may alcott rose terry cooke charlotte perkins gilman shirley jackson stephen king and ira levin edited with a new introduction by aimee mclaughlin the yellow wallpaper by american writer charlotte perkins gilman first published in january 1892 is regarded as an important early work of american feminist literature for its illustration of the attitudes towards mental and physical health of women in the 19th century what happens when a woman is pushed too far is she able to express her thoughts and feelings or is she forced towards the expectation of behaving normally again soon a woman travels with her husband to an old colonial mansion after a nervous breakdown triggered by the birth of their child confined to the nursery and allowed only to breathe fresh air eat well and rest in line with a regimented cure she slowly begins to unravel at the seams her only distraction is writing in secret that and the woman she begins to see trapped inside the yellow wallpaper of the room itself isolated and breaking apart she sets herself a task to free the woman and to become one with her temporary confinement charlotte perkins gilman s the yellow wallpaper presents a harrowing disturbing account of mental stress confinement and female turmoil within which the only available solace can be found inside four peeling sickly yellow walls our new edition also features the sequence of poems woman by charlotte perkins gilman the gothic genre offers gilman an effective mode of diagnosing contemporary culture whilst in tandem expressing her ensuing fears and anxieties gilman within this novella gothicises the domestic setting inverting the pillars of domesticity family security and understanding in turn unveiling the dangers lurking behind the familiarity of gender roles within marital relations the intimate first person narration of the narrative serves to enhance gilman s exposure of the oppressive forces of a male dominated society as she deplores her protagonist s inferior position in her domestic arrangement the female narrator is encumbered by masculine superiority undoubtedly dwelling in the middle of patriarchy embedded within her characterisation is the subjugated role bestowed upon victorian women gilman projects derangement onto a familiar literary figure the middle class wife and mother placing the source of this madness in the inviolate sphere for dutiful women the home from the new introduction to the yellow wallpaper by aimee mclaughlin
