in this second volume atelier bow wow shifts from studying the behavioural characteristics of the window typology to investigating their origins history and relationships how humans experience encounters with each other and the spaces inside and outside buildings is key to deciphering how combinations of context and environmental factors lead to various functions and typologies in different regions from belgium france germany and spain to vietnam hong kong china and japan the quest spans a variety of buildings and streetscapes encompassing both the contemporary and historic the result is a remarkable collection of photographs and analyses

Gaceta textil 1955

an artist possessed of genuine and genuinely wild imagination kumi machida born in 1970 has made international waves with her austere brushwork depicting biomorphic androidal humans in states of arousal communion or both machida combines a classical education in the japanese tradition of nihonga painting with contemporary motifs to forge a comic book style somewhat redolent of otaku culture that is all her own the eroticism of machida s line is offset by a minimal application of color in fact usually her figures are all line rendered in blue black indian ink with only occasional splashes of brighter color on kumohada linen paper the full color plates in this book are accompanied by two excellent texts by swiss expert eveline bernasconi and japanese art critic satoru nagoya who have followed machida s work for years
