this book argues that abbatial authority was fundamental to monastic historical writing in the period c 500 1500 writing history was a collaborative enterprise integral to the life and identity of medieval monastic communities but it was not an activity for which time and resources were set aside routinely each act of historiographical production constituted an extraordinary event one for which singular provision had to be made workers and materials assigned time carved out from the monastic routine and licence granted this allocation of human and material resources was the responsibility and prerogative of the monastic superior drawing on a wide and diverse range of primary evidence gathered from across the medieval latin west this book is the first to investigate systematically how and why abbots and abbesses exercised their official authority and resources to lay the foundations on which their communities historiographical traditions were built by themselves and others it showcases them as prolific authors patrons commissioners project managers and facilitators of historical narratives who not only regularly put pen to parchment personally but also and perhaps more importantly enabled others inside and outside their communities by granting them the resources and licence to write revealing the intrinsic relationship between abbatial authority and the writing of history in the middle ages with unprecedented clarity benjamin raises fundamental questions about the limits and definition of authorship in the context of the nineteenth century's explosion of collaborative ventures while the model of the stable single author that prevailed during the romantic period dominates the beginning of the century the authority of the speaking subject is increasingly in crisis through the century's political and social upheavals chapters consider the breakdown of authorial presence across different constructions of authorship including the numerous cénacles of the romantic period collaborative ventures in poetry through the practice of the tombeaux and as seen in the album zutique the interplay of text and image through illustrations for literary works the collective ventures of literary journals and multi-author prose works by authors such as the Goncourt brothers and Erckmann Chatrian interdisciplinary in scope these essays form a cohesive investigation of collaboration that extends beyond literature to include journalism and the relationships and tensions between literature and the arts the volume will interest scholars of nineteenth-century French literature and more generally any scholar interested in what's at stake in redefining the role of the French author goldman offers a provocative new reading of early twentieth century culture and the formal experiments that constitute modernist literature s unmistakable legacy he argues that the literary innovations of the modernists are indeed best understood as a participant in the popular phenomenon of celebrity presenting a persuasive argument as well as a chronicle of modernism s and celebrity s shared history modernism is the literature of celebrity begins by unraveling the uncanny syncretism between oscar wilde s writings and his public life goldman explains that wilde in shaping his instantly identifiable public image provided a model for both literary and celebrity cultures in the decades that followed in subsequent chapters goldman traces this lineage through two luminaries of the modernist canon james joyce and gertrude stein before turning to the cinema of mega star charlie chaplin he investigates how celebrity and modernism intertwine in the work of two less obvious modernist subjects jean rhys and john dos passos turning previous criticism on its head goldman demonstrates that the authorial self fashioning particular to modernism and generated by modernist technique helps create celebrity as we now know it
