The French at Home 1875

in lively prose albert rhodes describes in the french at home the allures and foibles of the gallic race early in american history before certain prejudices had set in this diplomat living in france shows the varied facets of french life in an age when traditional ideas still predominated using many charming examples rhodes touches on such subjects as chivalry speech epigrams dress food all the things that make the french so distinctive rhodes not only describes the many ordinary activities he observed as a diplomat in france but he also attempts to look deeply into the french character into a nation s personality to perceive what makes them better or worse than americans this long neglected book brings to life the manners and customs of the french at a time when gallantry was still alive and art and culture were held in high esteem rhodes s opportunities during a lengthy foreign residence in the consular and diplomatic service have been unusual and the results of his observations are presented here in a form that could be considered both brilliant and instructive

the council of europe stresses the importance of multilingualism in society and of individual plurilingual competence as means to social cohesion ultimately it is within the school that the necessary innovations need to take place the case studies presented in this publication are an authentic illustration of how this is being realised in different contexts and what successes and challenges it presents by bringing these innovative language education programmes and school profiles to the fore its participating in the creation of a new paradigm of school leadership whereby pupils parents and the local community instead of being excluded controlled and forgotten become actively involved in language endeavours similarly teachers can move on from being simply the executors of education programmes to becoming participants in drawing up implementing and evaluating school policies

Language, Nation and State 2004-10-14 at the heart of this volume lies an exploration of what actually happens to languages and their users when cultures come into contact what actions do supra national institutions nation states communities and individuals take in response to questions raised by the increasingly diverse forms of migration experienced in a globalized world the volume reveals the profound impact that decisions made at national and international level can have on the lives of the individual migrant language student or speech community equally it evaluates the broader ramifications of actions taken by migrant communities and individual language learners around issues of language learning language maintenance and intercultural contact reflecting jan blommaert s assertion that in a world shaped by globalization what is needed is a theory of language in society of changing language in a changing society this volume argues that researchers must increasingly seek diverse methodological approaches if they are to do justice to the diversity of experience and response they encounter food heritage and nationalism in europe contends that food is a fundamental element of heritage and a particularly important one in times of crisis arguing that food taste cuisine and gastronomy are crucial markers of identity that are inherently connected to constructions of place tradition and the past the book demonstrates how they play a role in intangible as well as tangible heritage featuring contributions from experts working across europe and beyond and adopting a strong historical and transnational perspective the book examines the various ways in which food can be understood and used as heritage including explorations of imperial spaces migrations and diasporas the role of commercialisation processes and institutional practices within political and cultural domains this volume considers all aspects of this complex issue arguing that the various european cuisines are the result of exchanges hybridities and complex historical processes porciani and the chapter authors offer up a new way of deconstructing banal nationalism and of moving away from the idea of static identities suggesting a new and different approach to the idea of so called national cuisines food heritage and nationalism in europe will be a compelling read for academic audiences in museum and heritage studies cultural and food studies anthropology and history chapters 1 2 4 6 and 12 of this book are freely available as downloadable open access pdfs at taylorfrancis com under a creative commons attribution non commercial no derivatives cc by nc nd 4 0 license

in the twentieth century the political zionist movement and egyptian rulers completely uprooted the country s thriving jewish community a goal the pharaohs tried to realize as early as 3500 years ago mostly comprised of descendants of sephardim from the iberian peninsula the world s oldest jewish community totaled 85 000 members in 1948 no more than 100 to 200 jews live in egypt today this book tells the story of egypt s jewish history from biblical times to 1967 the year of one of the last major jewish emigration waves from egypt it highlights the first exodus in ca 1500 bce and the second exodus which was triggered by the foundation of the state of israel and three successive wars in 1948 1956 and 1967 throughout the narrative it becomes evident that the jewish community consistently was subject to the arbitrary will of egyptian rulers starting in 1948 members of this community were forced to leave the country without any of their belongings on short notice like other jews from the arab world egyptian jews were not zionists in the eurocentric ashkenazi sense their arrival in israel was met with prejudice and disdain even though they were discriminated against in matters of housing and education they still managed to integrate well into israeli society and are now members of the country s upper and middle class the evidence presented in this book is based on interviews with ninety six egyptian jews in israel and the united states
