suitable for undergraduate level this is a market leading development textbook relationships between social policy and human development are the subject of much research and theorizing the literature in this area however examines these issues strictly within national contexts what influence will international agendas such as nafta the world summit for social development and habitat ii have transnational social policies specifically addresses the worldwide trend for national policies on human and social development to be increasingly influenced by agendas that are international or transnational in nature in doing so the book examines the underlying international developmental ethical economic and political issues shaping national policies in health education and employment in the developing world this book s focus on the transnational character of the social policy debate makes it a truly unique and original contribution to the literature it will appeal to the academic community worldwide in international development public policy and administration and social work policymakers researchers and practitioners in the field of public social policy and the international community of individuals and organizations working in international social development annotation examines the issues and dynamics central to africa s problematic development and situates those issues within the contents unique cultural political economic and social milieu this introductory textbook examines the role of the third world and the processes of development from the study of international politics and argues that in an increasingly globalized world development can no longer be seen as an isolated practice this volume offers profound analyses of the main theoretical and practical aspects of the concept of sustainable development namely current environmental problems the building of green economies climate policies specifics of international cooperation in the sphere of sustainable development specific features of business and government involvement in implementing sustainable development the role of civil society its social and gender aspects and specific characteristics of national models of sustainable development the focus on the international aspects of the implementation of sustainable development ideas makes the insights offered here fresh and unique this book will be useful for academics managers students and teaching staff of higher education institutions foreign aid is one of the few topics in the development discourse with such an uninterrupted yet volatile history in terms of interest and attention from academics policymakers and practitioners alike does aid work in promoting growth and reducing poverty in the developing world will a new big push approach accelerate progress towards the millennium development goals or will another opportunity be missed can the lessons of almost half a century of aid giving be learnt these are truly important questions in view of the emerging new landscape in foreign aid and recent developments related to the global financial crisis which are expected to have far reaching implications for both donors and recipients engaged in this area against this shifting aid landscape there is a pressing need to evaluate progress to date and shed new light on emerging issues and agendas this volume brings together leading aid experts to review the progress achieved so far identify the challenges ahead and discuss the emerging policy agenda in foreign aid a central conclusion of this important and timely volume is that since development aid remains crucial for many developing countries a huge effort is needed from both donors and aid recipients to overcome the inefficiencies and make aid work better for poor people after all as global citizens we have a moral obligation to do the best we can to lift people out of poverty in the developing world the findings of this book will be of considerable interest to professionals and policymakers engaged in policy reforms in foreign aid and provide an essential one stop reference for students of development international finance and economics this book challenges the way development has been conceptualized and practiced in south asian context and argues for its deconstruction in a way that would allow freedom choice and greater well being for the local people far from taking development for granted as growth and advancement this book unveils how development could also be a destructive force to local socio cultural and environmental contexts with a critical examination of such conventional development practices as hegemonic patriarchal devastating and failure it highlights how the rethinking of development could be seen as a matter of practice by incorporating peopleâ tm s interest priorities and participation the book theoretically challenges the conventional notion of hegemonic development and proposes alternative means and practically provides nuances of ethnographic knowledge which will be of great interest to policy planners development practitioners educationists and anyone interested in knowing more about how people think about their own development this collection of essays by leading feminist thinkers from north and south constitutes a major new attempt to reposition feminism within development studies feminism s emphasis on social transformation makes it fundamental to development studies yet the relationship between the two disciplines has frequently been a troubled one at present the way in which many development institutions function often undermines feminist intent through bureaucratic structures and unequal power quotients moreover the seeming intractability of inequalities and injustice in developing countries have presented feminists with some enormous challenges here emphasizing the importance of a plurality of approaches the authors argue for the importance of what feminisms have to say to development confronting the enormous challenges for feminisms in development studies this book provides real hope for dialogue and exchange between feminisms and development some ten million people worldwide are displaced or resettled every year due to development projects such as the construction of dams irrigation schemes urban development transport conservation or mining projects the results have usually been very negative for most of those people who have to move as well as for other people in the area such as host populations people are often left socially and institutionally disrupted and economically worse off with the environment also suffering as a result of the introduction of infrastructure and increased crowding in the areas to which people had to move the contributors to this volume argue that there is a complexity and a tension inherent in trying to reconcile enforced displacement of people with the subsequent creation of a socio economically viable and sustainable environment only when these are squarely confronted will it be possible to adequately deal with the problems and to improve resettlement policies this unique reader traces the changing fortunes of community development through a selection of readings from key writers outlines significant research problems methods and strategies used in community development demonstrating the way in which research inspires and derives from activity this book presents seminal readings from existing literature alongside specially commissioned critical vignettes from leading thinkers with interests in sustainable development and learning the book sets out to inform readers about the many perspectives that exist and to challenge assumptions they may have about both sustainable development and learning through the readings and vignettes the book raises wide ranging issues of how we choose to act following the format of its companion volume sustainable development and learning framing the issues the book builds on existing work across a number of fields as well as on original international research key issues in sustainable development and learning a critical review is a major resource for anyone studying for masters degrees focusing on environment and sustainable development it is also a valuable tool for professionals in both public and private sector who are dealing with these issues daily bill and steve s book for routledge sustainable development and learning framing the issues is one of the academic sources cited by the united nations in its draft international implementation scheme for the decade of education for sustainable development which was launched by kofi annan last month this book revisits some of the persisting challenges of development of india which remain unresolved even after twenty five years of economic reforms and almost fifteen years of high growth rate these include defining purpose of development inequality labour work unemployment agrarian distress and migration the book questions the overemphasis on growth to the extent of neglecting basic issues of development with a number of contributions re imagining development and its political economy the book discusses above mentioned issues in light of new data and more recent conceptions of the issues the contributors of this volume are eminent researchers in their respective field presenting primary as well as secondary data the book considers the latest advances and research and also addresses new challenges like the global reorganization of production and the consequences for labour and the world of work along with skills question world of work has received detailed investigation in this book this is a timely addition in existing literature especially in context of pandemic and lockdown informality and un employment question is addressed in this context relationship among poverty inequality and growth is examined in light of newer understanding agrarian distress is looked in a broader context a number of papers are examining migration question by expanding coverage of migration and including labour mobility as apart of migration debate the present crisis of migrant labour and absence of social security for these workers is also discussed this book is primarily intended for those interested in recent advances on some of the basic aspects of development like poverty inequality informality word of work migration and labour mobility it is also useful for researchers policy makers journalists and civil society organizations working on these issues this paper outlines areas of human rights law relevant to development and introduces perspectives on the nature of the relationship between the two fields while it is clear that some progress has been made towards integrating human rights and development it is clear that the two

discourses remain distinct and attempts to find commonalities and convergence between them face numerous issues in practice a key question for both human rights advocates and development practitioners is how human rights standards can be maintained in the context of development practices does the media in the pacific sufficiently cover development issues where does it go wrong and what does it miss what are the challenges faced by pacific island journalists and how does this affect coverage of development issues contributors include associate professor david robie dr evangelia papoutsaki julie middleton jaap jasperse nicole gooch and lisa williams lahari dr trevor cullen kevin barr professor ron duncan nazhat shameem dr shaista shameem and kalinga seneviratne topics include gender media and development environmental journalism and development developing pacific health journalism poverty and development human rights and development and development journalism future directions in a developing country like india women are the most important national resource as half of the population constitutes women despite successive decades of activism and a large number of movements and legislation in the country the efforts at improving the status of women have not been successful and women continue to suffer social and physical stigmas this book contains research conducted among the maharashtrian women in india s city of pune it examines issues sociocultural educational economic and political and the role of mass media in women s development women who attain an education and better economic status are found to be developing new and modern outlooks and opinions they have started to question the traditional image of a submissive indian woman moving away from this image by asserting their rights through participation in the decision making process within the family opposing many traditional customs beliefs and practices having a positive attitude towards role fluidity between husband and wife and striving for education employment economic independence political participation etc this book features more than 50 papers presented at the international halal conference 2014 which was held in istanbul and organised by the academy of contemporary islamic studies of universiti teknologi mara it addresses the challenges facing muslims involved in halal industries in meeting the increasing global demand the papers cover topics such as halal food halal pharmaceuticals halal cosmetics and personal care halal logistics halal testing and analysis and ethics in the halal industry overall the volume offers a comprehensive point of view on islamic principles relating to the halal business industry culture food safety finance and other aspects of life the contributors include experts from various disciplines who apply a variety of scientific research methodologies they present perspectives that range from the experimental to the philosophical this volume will appeal to scholars at all levels of qualification and experience who seek a clearer understanding of important issues in the halal industry based on current research debates and concerns understanding difficulties in literacy development issues and concepts adopts a cross disciplinary approach to understanding and working with those who experience difficulties with literacy it provides a broad view of difficulties in literacy and related educational and curriculum learning issues across a range of ages phases and settings
