finance in the process broad in coverage and bolstered by tables and figures presenting exit polls and voting results in the primaries caucuses and the general election these essays discuss the consequences of these elections for the presidency congress and the larger political system contributors marjorie randon hershey indiana university marc j hetherington university of north carolina at chapel hill charles hunt boise state university gary c jacobson university of california san diego william g mayer northeastern university nicole mellow williams college gerald m pomper rutgers university paul j quirk university of british columbia andrew rudalevige bowdoin college candis watts smith pennsylvania state university the 2nd volume of the new novel series zak raven esq zak raven is your typical 15 year old boy living in bluffside he wakes up goes to school comes home and does his homework but somewhere between dinner and curfew while most of his friends are playing video games zak can be found battling real life robots and his very own arch enemy professor bimitri raine once a super powered hero zak fought to save the world as kid ranger now his superhuman abilities have diminished and he s just ordinary zak a regular 15 year old who strives to remain the hero he once was without superpowers he must depend on his own agility and training to help him save the day and still find time for that algebra homework this is the first full length biography of william w warren 1825 53 an ojibwe interpreter historian and legislator in the minnesota territory devoted to the interests of the ojibwe at a time of government attempts at removal warren lives on in his influential book history of the ojibway still the most widely read and cited source on the ojibwe people the son of a yankee fur trader and an ojibwe french mother warren grew up in a frontier community of mixed cultures warren s loyalty to government indian policies was challenged but never his loyalty to the ojibwe people in his short life the issues with which he was concerned included land rights treaties indian removal mixed blood politics and state and federal indian policy theresa m schenck has assembled a remarkable collection of newly discovered documents dozens of letters and other writings illuminate not only warren s heart and mind but also a time of radical change in american indian history these documents combined with schenck s commentary provide historical and contextual perspective on warren s life on the breadth of his activities and on the complexity of the man himself as such they offer a useful and long awaited companion to warren s history of the ojibway the popularity of the circus in the united states reached its zenith in the early 1900s as the century progressed the circus gradually came to reflect traditional american values in this book patricia l bradley analyzes the extent to which warren s 1947 novella the circus in the attic and its use of the circus trope establishes a critical matrix for interpreting his fiction poetry essays and literary criticism testifies to the presence of god as both our post earthly hope and our present world existence these thought provoking sermons by ralph wood a layman who has taught religion and literature for many years seek to till new soil in the fertile field of christian faith and life they draw on a wide range of reading not only in christian theology but also in both classical and contemporary literature and culture and they also mine wood s own professorial and personal experience in dealing with both the old and the young amid the chances and changes of life wood squarely engages the american culture of death by wrestling with such vexing questions as sexuality and marriage war and peace abortion racial injustice and abuse of the elderly by grounding his homilies in specific times places and quandaries wood demonstrates that christianity remains a vigorous set of doctrines and morals precisely as preaching and ethics give shape to our worship and living in the here and now focusing not so much on our getting to heaven wood s preaching and professing shows concretely how the gospel gets heaven into us the ghosts of the civil war never leave us as david blight knows perhaps better than anyone and in this superb book he masterfully unites two distant but inextricably bound events ken burns standing on the steps of the lincoln memorial on august 28 1963 a century after the signing of the emancipation proclamation martin luther king jr declared one hundred years later the negro still is not free he delivered this speech just three years after the virginia civil war commission published a guide proclaiming that the centennial is no time for finding fault or placing blame or fighting the issues all over again david blight takes his readers back to the centennial celebration to determine how americans then made sense of the suffering loss and liberation that had wracked the united states a century earlier amid cold war politics and civil rights protest four of america s most incisive writers explored the gulf between remembrance and reality robert penn warren the southern reared poet novelist who recanted his support of segregation bruce catton the journalist and u s navy officer who became a popular civil war historian edmund wilson the century s preeminent literary critic and james baldwin the searing african american essayist and activist each exposed america s triumphalist memory of the war and each in his own way demanded a reckoning with the tragic consequences it spawned blight illuminates not only mid twentieth century america s sense of itself but also the dynamic ever changing nature of civil war memory on the eve of the 150th anniversary of the war we have an invaluable perspective on how this conflict continues to shape the country s political debates national identity and sense of purpose this monograph is dedicated to the lives and scientific achievements of the physiology pioneers warren and margaret lewis their
