Careers in Criminal Justice and Criminology 2005 adapted from Frank Hagan's best-selling research methods in criminal justice and criminology. This new text offers a complete introduction to qualitative and quantitative research for criminal justice in a manageable and reader-friendly format. The text emphasizes sources and resources of classic and contemporary research in the field. Also, the text uses criminological and criminal justice studies to illustrate research methods so students can become familiar with examples of research in the field and learn fundamental research skills. Students reading this text will learn about how to do research by also being exposed to and learning about classic and contemporary research examples in criminal justice and criminology. The importance of ethics in research on this subject is emphasized by having it as the second chapter, which is also replete with examples. The importance of research and becoming familiar with various designs, as well as examples, is covered in chapter 3 on research design. Qualitative research is given detailed coverage in the chapters on participant observation and unobtrusive measures.

The Practice of Research in Criminology and Criminal Justice

2014-12-16 myriad forms of communication occur within the criminal justice system as judges and attorneys speak to juries, law enforcement officers interact with the public, and the news media presents stories of events in courtrooms. Hindrances abound, however. Law enforcement officers and justice system personnel often encounter challenges that affect their ability to communicate with others, ranging from language barriers to conflicting accounts of witnessed events to errors caused by malfunctioning technology. Examining the relevancy of the U.S. Constitution to modern communications, the foundations of communication in criminal justice systems demonstrates how information is conveyed from multiple perspectives in a range of scenarios, enabling readers to see how these matters relate to and affect the criminal justice system. Topics covered include how to use the communications process within the justice system, from the crafting of messages through the solicitation of feedback, effective methods for persuading individuals, and
