A Guide To Non-Jazz Improvisation: Banjo Edition 2010-12-29

the non jazz improvisation series is a concept that germinated in dick weissman s mind while he was attending music school he wrote a 15 piece arrangement of the old square dance tune cripple creek and wanted the trombone to take a solo as part of the arrangement when the trombonist kept playing a bebop solo that was totally unsuitable for the chart dick realized that in addition to the many musicians who do not improvise there are even jazz musicians who don t know how to improvise outside the limits of their own stylistic backgrounds this book approaches the five string banjo as a musical instrument freed from the prison of specific musical genres old time music clawhammer bluegrass and many eclectic adaptations of the banjo are utilized to demonstrate a variety of musical styles a number of the selections are in different tunings all examples are written out in traditional and tablature notation

this book examines the conductor's methods in terms of the realization of expressive potential in a selected body of works this examination encompasses analytical technical and expressive gestural aspects of the art and craft of conducting the author also discusses the idea of meaning in music and ways both musical and extramusical in which meaning arises in performance in this unique study the author also considers how the use of physical gestures may have an impact upon the realization of expressive potential in a given work and in particular upon those works selected for discussion central to this process is the notion that there is something behind the notes text based modes of analysis do not afford access to music as it is created by the actions of performers and conductors the author argues that this music often has strong extroversive associations inquiry limited to the text neither helps the interpreter to realise fully the expressive or communicative potential of that work nor does it fully consider the impact of expressive issues on performance thus the conductor acts as a mediator in this process taking the work and all relevant information surrounding it into account as it is prepared for performance it is within this context that the author examines john corigliano's overture from gazebo dances karel husa's introduction and fanfare from music for prague 1968 edward gregson's celebration and morning music by richard rodney bennett with regard to their expressive potential and adopts topical analysis in a general way as a point of departure in an attempt to relate this potential to physical gestures facial expressions and body language in the art and craft of conducting in addition the author considers the applicability of the analytical tools developed in the study to the actual practice of performance with regard to the works discussed and attempts to show the relationship between the analysis of a given work the physical manifestation of what that analysis uncovers and the realisation of expressive potential in performance this book will help readers better understand the relationship between the conductor's physical gestures body language and facial expressions and the expressive potential of selected works for the wind orchestra as a book that clearly reflects the author's passion it will be a welcome addition for collections in music
