The Migrant Presence

2020-07-30

this classic work in australian sociology examines the way in which australian institutions have responded to the influx of migrants of non anglo saxon origin until the end of the sixties the typical australian reaction was that these migrants could be and were being assimilated into the mainstream of british australian society and culture at the end of the sixties both the assimilationist philosophy and the claim of successful and effortless absorption came into question and migrants of non english speaking background began to be defined as problems now in a third phase migrants themselves are rejecting the notion that they are above all problems or people with problems instead they are asserting their rights and dignity as legitimate minorities in an ethnically plural society the author goes on to trace in detail the response of the institutions of education health and the trade unions to the migrant presence well written well presented well documented and challenging c a price the national times well written sympathetic to the point of anger and should be included in any course on australasian society or public policy an invaluable contribution james jupp politics this book explores mobile learning as a form of learning particularly suited to our ever more mobile world presenting a new conceptualisation of the value of mobile devices in education through the metaphor of lenses on learning with a principal focus on mobile assisted language learning. It draws on insights derived from mobile language literacy and cultural projects to illustrate the possibilities inherent in all mobile learning. In its broad sweep the book takes in new and emerging technologies and tools from robots to holograms virtual reality to augmented reality and smart glasses to embeddable chips considering their potential impact on education and indeed on human society and the planet as a whole while not shying away from discussing the risks it demonstrates that handled appropriately mobile context aware technologies allow educators to build on the personalised and collaborative learning facilitated by web 2.0 and social media but simultaneously to go much further in promoting authentic learning experiences grounded in real world encounters in this way teachers can better prepare students to face a global mobile future with all of its evolving possibilities and challenges.
