for two generations historians have debated the significance of the new deal arguing about what it tried and tried not to do whether it was radical or reactionary and what its origins were they have emphasized the national recovery administration agricultural adjustment administration tennessee valley authority or the various social and labor legislation to illustrate an assortment of arguments about the real new deal here james olson contends that the little studied reconstruction finance corporation was the major new deal agency even though it was the product of the hoover administration pouring more than ten billion dollars into private businesses during the 1930s in a strenuous effort to save capitalism the rfc was the largest most powerful and most influential of all new deal agencies proving that the main thrust of the new deal was state capitalism the use of the federal government to shore up private property and the status quo as national and international money markets collapsed in 1930 hoover created an rfc with a structure similar to that of his war finance corporation the agency was given two billion dollars to make low interest loans to commercial banks savings banks other financial institutions and railroads with modifications it survived the ultimate collapse of the economy in 1933 and went on to become the central part of the new deal s effort to preserve fundamental american institutions originally published in 1988 the princeton legacy library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of princeton university press these editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions the goal of the princeton legacy library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by princeton university press since its founding in 1905 throughout his career e stanley jones has been a witness an evangelist bearer of good news in spite of all temptation to be something else whether a lecturer scholar or bishop he has been and remains an evangelist and a missionary mostly he has been a catalyst and as witness has laid everything at the feet of christ along the way jones dealt with the hard and controversial social political and economic issues he has not sidestepped conflict and has always been prepared to take exposed positions few have set forth the gospel of the kingdom with such incisive clarity above all these excerpts are not merely instructional but invitational they invite response participation involvement in new life in christ to one thing we both can testify it has been a rewarding activity to choose and compile the selections for this book in rereading these books we were constantly amazed by their continuing vitality and freshness and with an astonishingly contemporary flavor the themes are in no sense passé rather the church has not yet caught up with some of these perspectives in one of his books stanley jones says that there are just two great human needs light on the mystery of life and light for the mastery of life we trust that help addressed toward these two needs will not fail to shine through these selected passages eunice jones mathews and james k mathews
