moving away from criminal behaviour can be fraught with difficulties often it can involve leaving behind old habits customs and even friends while at the same time adopting a new way of life how do individuals go about making a decision to give up crime how do they plan to sustain this decision and in what ways does probation help this book explores these questions based on in depth interviews with a group of men under probation supervision sam king investigates the factors associated with making a decision to desist from crime the book examines strategies for desistance and explores the factors that individuals consider when they are thinking about how they will desist in doing so the book sheds new light on existing understandings of desistance from crime and helps to develop our understandings of the role that individuals play in constructing their own desistance journeys this book also highlights the role of probation in this process offering a timely and critical review of the nature of probation under the new labour government in the uk between 1997 2010 the findings indicate that we should allow probation officers greater autonomy and discretion within their roles and that we should free them from the bureaucracy of risk assessment and targets moreover the book warns against the potential fragmentation of community supervision as such the book will be of interest to criminology students researchers academics policymakers and practitioners particularly those who work with ex offenders in the community does gender make a difference to the way the judiciary works and should work or is gender blindness a built in prerequisite of judicial objectivity if gender does make a difference how might this be defined these are the key questions posed in this collection of essays by some 30 authors from the following countries argentina cambodia canada england france germany india israel italy ivory coast japan kenya the netherlands the philippines south africa switzerland syria and the united states the contributions draw on various theoretical approaches including gender feminist and sociological theories the book s pressing topicality is underlined by the fact that well into the modern era male opposition to women s admission to and progress within the judicial profession has been largely based on the argument that their very gender programmes women to show empathy partiality and gendered prejudice in short essential qualities running directly counter to the need for judicial objectivity it took until the last century for women to begin to break down such seemingly insurmountable barriers and even now there are a number of countries where even this first step is still waiting to happen in all of them there remains a more or less pronounced glass ceiling to women s judicial careers

a collection of problems on mathematical physics is a translation from the russian and deals with problems and equations of mathematical physics the book contains problems and solutions the book discusses problems on the derivation of equations and boundary condition these problems are arranged on the type and reduction to canonical form of equations in two or more independent variables the equations of hyperbolic type concerns derive from problems on vibrations of continuous media and on electromagnetic oscillations the book considers the statement and solutions of boundary value problems pertaining to equations of parabolic types when the physical processes are described by functions of two three or four independent variables such as spatial coordinates or time the book then discusses dynamic problems pertaining to the mechanics of continuous media and problems on electrodynamics the text also discusses hyperbolic and elliptic types of equations the book is intended for students in advanced mathematics and physics as well as for engineers and workers in research institutions early urbanizations in the levant examines the first cycle of urbanization collapse and reurbanization in the 4th 2nd millennium bce levant the core of the study is a detailed analysis of settlement fluctuations and material culture development in the hula valley at the crossroads between modern israel syria and lebanon focusing on field data and a close reading of the material text the book emphasizes the variety exhibited in patterns of cultural and social change when small densely settled regions are carefully scrutinized using the concepts of time space edges and shifting loci of power the study suggests new scenarios to explain changes in the regional archaeological record and considers the implications these have for existing reconstructions of social evolution in the larger region the levant is shown to be composed of a fluid mosaic of polities that moved along multiple if often parallel paths towards and away from complexity this book should be of interest to anyone studying the archaeology of early state formation in the near east particularly in areas of secondary urbanization palestine syria and anatolia with its detailed consideration of settlement patterns and ceramic production it is also indispensable for the study of the early history of the two major sites in the area tel dan and tel hazor being the first attempt to integrate the results of excavations at these sites with the information obtained in archaeological surveys of the valley which sustained them caves have been used in various ways across human society but despite the persistence within popular culture of the iconic caveman deep caves were never used primarily as habitation sites for early humans rather in both ancient and contemporary contexts caves have served primarily as ritual spaces in sacred darkness contributors use archaeological evidence as well as ethnographic studies of modern ritual practices to envision the cave as place of spiritual and ideological power and a potent venue for ritual practice covering the ritual use of caves in europe asia australia africa mesoamerica and the us southwest and eastern woodlands this book brings together case studies by prominent scholars whose research spans from the paleolithic period to the present day these contributions demonstrate that cave sites are as fruitful as surface contexts in promoting the understanding of both ancient and modern religious beliefs and practices this state of the art survey of ritual cave use will be one of the most valuable resources for understanding the role of caves in studies of religion sacred landscape or cosmology and a must read for any archaeologist interested in caves for many archaeologists iberia is the last great unknown region in europe although it occupies a crucial position between south western europe and north africa academic attention has traditionally been focused on areas like greece or italy however iberia has an equally rich cultural heritage and archaeological tradition this ground breaking volume presents a sample of the ways in which archaeologists have applied theoretical frameworks to the interpretation of archaeological evidence offering new insights into the archaeology of both iberia and europe from prehistoric time through to the tenth century the contributors to this book are leading archaeologists drawn from both countries they offer innovative and challenging models for the paleolithic neolithic copper age bronze age iron age roman early medieval and islamic periods a diverse range of subjects are covered including urban transformation the iron age peoples of spain observations on historiography and the origins of the arab domains of al andalus it is essential reading for advanced undergraduates and those researching the archaeology of the iberian peninsula the critically acclaimed serialized review journal for over 50 years advances in geophysics is a highly respected publication in the field of geophysics since 1952 each volume has been eagerly awaited frequently consulted and praised by researchers and reviewers alike now in its 56th volume it contains much material still relevant today truly an essential publication for researchers in all fields of geophysics contributions from leading authorities informs and updates on all the latest developments in the field

the forms by which a deceased person may be brought to rest are as many as there are causes of death in most societies the disposal of the corpse is accompanied by some form of celebration or ritual which may range from a simple act of deportment in solitude to the engagement of large masses of people in laborious and creative festivities in a funerary context the term ritual may be taken to represent a process that incorporates all the actions performed and thoughts expressed in connection with a dying and dead person from the preparatory pre death stages to the final deposition of the corpse and the post mortem stages of grief and commemoration the contributions presented here are focused not on the examination of different funerary practices their function and meaning but on the changes of such rituals how and when they occurred and how they may be explained based on case studies from a range of geographical regions and from different prehistoric and historical periods a range of key themes are examined concerning belief and ritual body and deposition place performance and commemoration exploring a complex web of practices electrons neutrons and protons in engineering focuses on the engineering significance of electrons neutrons and protons the emphasis is on engineering materials and processes whose characteristics may be explained by considering the behavior of small particles when grouped into systems such as nuclei atoms gases and crystals this volume is comprised of 25 chapters and begins with an overview of the relation between science and engineering followed by a discussion on the microscopic and macroscopic domains of matter the next chapter presents the basic relations involving mechanics electricity and magnetism light heat and related subjects which are most significant in the study of modern physical science subsequent chapters explore the nucleus and structure of an atom the concept of binding forces and binding energy the configuration of the system of the electrons surrounding the atomic nucleus physical and chemical properties of atoms and the structure of gases and solids the energy levels of groups of particles are also considered along with the schrödinger equation and electrical conduction through gases and solids the remaining chapters are devoted to nuclear fission nuclear reactors and radiation this book will appeal to physicists engineers and mathematicians as well as students and researchers in those fields
