Social Science and Historical Perspectives 2016-10-04 despite the fact that nationalism and its national projects have in recent years been severely criticised by postcolonial theorists for being fundamentalist and essentialist by feminists for being patriarchal and exclusive by global financial institutions for being antagonistic to development and globalisation by pan africanists for being anticontinental unity and by those africans born after decolonisation for being irrelevant sabelo j ndlovu gatsheni and finex ndhlovu s book convincingly argues that nationalism has defied its death and displayed remarkable resilience and resonance since the end of the cold war what has been poignant has been the enduring contest tensions and contradictions between the growth of various forms of transnationalism on the one hand and a resurgence of territorial as well as other narrow and xenophobic forms of nationalism on the other in this important book ndlovu gatsheni and ndhlovu provide new critical reflections on nationalism and its national projects in southern africa covering south africa zimbabwe and the democratic republic of congo drc a member of sadc the national question is interrogated from different disciplinary vantage points to reveal how it impinges on contemporary challenges of nation building development devolution of power language questions and citizenship on the one hand and ethnicity nativism and xenophobia on the other

No More Tears 1997 human health is shaped by the interactions between social and ecological systems in states of disease brian king advances a social ecology of health framework to demonstrate how historical spatial formations contribute to contemporary vulnerabilities to disease and the opportunities for health justice he examines how expanded access to antiretroviral therapy is transforming managed hiv in south africa and he reveals how environmental health is shifting due to global climate change and flooding variability in northern botswana these case studies illustrate how the political environmental context shapes the ways in which health is embodied experienced and managed

Nationalism and National Projects in Southern Africa 2013 the argumentative point of departure of this scholarly book is the common conviction of specialists in the field of education in south africa that the national education system is not at a satisfactory level in both the academic and the public discourse such allegations are made and frequently stronger adjectives than non satisfactory are used results of international test series in which south africa has participated such as the 2015 timss tests confirm the negative verdicts found in the public and scholarly discourse this book aims to argue that although the lack of performance could be attributed to a multiplicity of factors one factor that can make a difference in the achievement levels obtained by learners in schools is leadership the book demonstrates that a particular problem of both the scholarly and the public discourse on education in south africa is an over the ultimate day trading
