from robert lovelace s uninvited hand grasps in samuel richardson s clarissa to to basil hallward s first encounter with dorian gray literary depictions of touching hands in british literature from the 1740s to the 1890s communicate emotional dimensions of sexual experience that reflect shifting cultural norms associated with gender roles sexuality and sexual expression but what is the relationship between hands tactility and sexuality in victorian literature and how do we best interpret what those touches communicate between characters this volume addresses these questions by asserting a connection between the prevalence of violent sexually charged touches in eighteenth century novels such as those by eliza haywood samuel richardson and frances burney and growing public concern over handshake etiquette in the nineteenth century evident in works by jane austen the brontës george eliot elizabeth gaskell thomas hardy oscar wilde and flora annie steel this book takes an interdisciplinary approach that combines literary analysis with close analyses of paintings musical compositions and nonfictional texts such as etiquette books and scientific treatises to make a case for the significance of tactility to eighteenth and nineteenth century perceptions of selfhood and sexuality in doing so it draws attention to the communicative nature of skin to skin contact as represented in literature and traces a trajectory of meaning from the forceful grips that violate female characters in eighteenth century novels to the consensual embraces common in victorian and neo victorian literature given that touch and touching is so central to everyday embodied existence why has it been largely ignored by social scientists for so long what is the place of touch in our mixed spaces of sociality work domesticity recreation creativity or care what conceptual resources and academic languages can we reach towards when approaching tactile activities and somatic experiences through the body how is this tactile landscape gendered how is touch becoming revisited and revalidated in late capitalism through animal encounters tourism massage beauty treatments professional medicine everyday spiritualities or the aseptic touch free spaces of automated toilets how is touch placed and valued within scholarly fieldwork and research itself integral as it is to the production of embodied epistemologies how is touch involved in such aesthetic experiences as shaping objects in sand or encountering fleshly bodies within a painting the goal of this edited collection touching space placing touch is twofold 1 to further advance theoretical and empirical understanding of touch in social science scholarship by focussing on the differential social and cultural meanings of touching and the places of touch 2 to develop a multi faceted and interdisciplinary explanations of touch in terms of individual and social life personal experiences and tasks and their related cultural contexts the twelve essays in this volume provide a rich combination of theoretical resources methodological approaches and empirical investigation each chapter takes a distinct aspect of touch within a particular spatial context exploring this through a mixture of sustained empirical work critical theories of embodiment philosophical and psychoanalytic approaches to gendered touch and touching or the relationship between visual and non visual culture to articulate something of the variety and variability of touching experiences the contributors are a mixture of established and emerging researchers within a growing interdisciplinary field of scholarship yet the volume has a strong thematic identity and therefore represents the formative collection concerning the multiple senses of touch within social science scholarship at this time this book is a study of the narrative techniques that developed for two very popular forms of fiction in the nineteenth century ghost stories and detective stories and the surprising similarities between them in the context of contemporary theories of vision and sight srdjan smajić argues that to understand how writers represented ghost seers and detectives the views of contemporary scientists philosophers and spiritualists with which these writers engage have to be taken into account these views raise questions such as whether seeing really is believing how much of what we see is actually only inferred and whether there may be other intuitive or spiritual ways of seeing that enable us to perceive objects and beings inaccessible to the bodily senses this book will make a real contribution to the understanding of victorian science in culture and of the ways in which literature draws on all kinds of knowledge
