Comprehension of verb inflection in German-speaking children 2014-10-09

previous studies on the acquisition of verb inflection in normally developing children have revealed an astonishing pattern children use correctly inflected verbs in their own speech but fail to make use of verb inflections when comprehending sentences uttered by others thus a three year old might well be able to say something like the cat sleeps on the bed but fails to understand that the same sentence when uttered by another person refers to only one sleeping cat but not more than one the previous studies that have examined children s comprehension of verb inflections have employed a variant of a picture selection task in which the child was asked to explicitly indicate via pointing what semantic meaning she had inferred from the test sentence recent research on other linguistic structures such as pronouns or focus particles has indicated that earlier comprehension abilities can be found when methods are used that do not require an explicit reaction like preferential looking tasks this dissertation aimed to examine whether children are truly not able to understand the connection the the verb form and the meaning of the sentence subject until the age of five years or whether earlier comprehension can be found when a different measure preferential looking is used additionally children s processing of subject verb agreement violations was examined the three experiments of this thesis that examined children s comprehension of verb inflections revealed the following german speaking three to four year old children looked more to a picture showing one actor when hearing a sentence with a singular inflected verb but only when their eye gaze was tracked and they did not have to perform a picture selection task when they were asked to point to the matching picture they performed at chance level this pattern indicates asymmetries in children s language performance even within the receptive modality the fourth experiment examined sensitivity to subject verb agreement violations and did not reveal evidence for sensitivity toward agreement violations in three and four year old children but only found that children's looking patterns were influenced by the grammatical violations at the age of five the results from these experiments are discussed in relation to the existence of a production comprehension asymmetry in the use of verb inflections and children's underlying grammatical knowledge between 1933 and 1945 national socialists enacted a focused effort to propagandize children s literature by distorting existing german values and traditions with the aim of creating a homogenous folk community a vast censorship committee in berlin oversaw the publication revision and distribution of books and textbooks for young readers exercising its control over library and bookstore content as well as over new manuscripts so as to redirect the cultural consumption of the nation s children in particular the nazis emphasized nordic myths and legends with a focus on the fighting spirit of the saga heroes their community loyalty and a fierce spirit of revenge elements that were then applied to the concepts of loyalty to and sacrifice for the führer and the fatherland they also tolerated select popular series even though these were meant to be replaced by modern hitler youth camping stories in this important book first published in 1984 and now back in print christa kamenetsky demonstrates how nazis used children s literature to selectively shape a nordic germanic worldview that was intended to strengthen the german folk community the führer and the fatherland by imposing a racial perspective on mankind their efforts corroded the last remnants of the weimar republic s liberal education while promoting an enthusiastic following for hitler

Children's Literature in Hitler's Germany 2003-01-01

this book examines the right to education for migrant children in europe between 1949 and 1992 using west germany as a case study to explore european trends the book analyzes how the council of europe and european community s ideological goals were implemented for specific national groups the book starts with education for displaced persons and exiles in the 1950s then compares schooling for italian greek and turkish labor migrants then circles back to asylum seekers and returning ethnic germans for each group the state entries involved tried to balance equal education opportunities with the right to personhood an effort which became particularly convoluted due to implicit biases when the european union was founded in 1993 children s access to education depended on a complicated mix of legal status and perception of cultural compatibility despite claims that all children should have equal opportunities children s access was limited by citizenship and ethnic identity

Diagnostics of Endocrine Function in Children and Adolescents 2021-08-19

this book addresses the phenomenon of children as the particular targets of extreme cruelty and genocide during armed conflict selected international criminal court cases are analyzed to illustrate the icc s failure to address the genocidal forcible transfer of children to armed state and or non state groups or forces perpetrating mass atrocities and or genocide an original legal interpretation of children as a protected group in the context of the genocide provision of the rome statute is provided the work also examines certain examples of the various modes in which armed state and or non state groups or forces perpetrating mass atrocities and or genocide appropriate children and accomplish the genocidal forcible transfer of children to the perpetrator group it is argued that the failure to prosecute the genocidal forcible transfer of children through the icc mechanisms where the court has jurisdiction and the state has failed to meet its obligations in this regard undermines the perceived gravity of this heinous international crime within the international community furthermore this icc failure to prosecute conflicts with the interests of justice and ultimately results in an erosion of the respect for the personhood and human dignity of children countries in this region have been particularly limited for an exception to this see petmesidou papatheodorou 2006 the underlying assumption in this volume is that despite the diversity of welfare states bordering the mediterranean sea some interesting commonalities are shared by these nations indeed in his contribution to this volume gal has described these nations as belonging to an extended family of welfare states that share some common characteristics and outcomes one of which is the role of the family by bringing together case analyses of the welfare states in the mediterranean which focus on children gender and families we maintain that it is possible to shed light on aspects of social policy that do not necessarily emerge in most discussions of these issues in the literature the rationale inherent in a volume that focuses on a group of welfare states is of course embedded in the welfare regime typology notion that has dominated much of the comparative social policy literature over the last two decades the publication of esping andersen s seminal work the three worlds of welfare capitalism in 1990 and his related 1999 book which distinguished between three welfare regimes became a landmark for comparative work of social policies in various countries esping andersen regarded his typology as a useful tool for comparison between welfare states because it allowed for greater analytical parsimony and help s us to see the forest rather than myriad trees 1999 p 73
