if you want to help people learn from activities exercises or experiences this book is for you this book fills a gap it is the gap between doing an activity and learning from it plenty of books describe activities that are good for icebreaking for team building for project management or for cross cultural understanding etc a few of these books do give advice about reviewing or debriefing the activities and 90 of the times it reads here are some questions you can ask how s that for boring and or limiting the result of such advice is that reviews are often dull and they dwell on what went wrong when reading they give off a feeling of discomfort but why is that well one of the reasons is because the same people speak up all the time and that bores and might even annoy the rest of the participants thus reviewing gets a bad name and people just want the review to finish as quickly as possible so that they can get on with the next activity this is a rare book for two reasons it is about reviewing how many books have you come across on this subject it is about reviewing actively which makes it not just rare but unique with the help of this book you can make reviews at least as engaging as the activities you are reviewing no more discomfort no more unwanted silences no more superficial reviews just engaging and practical ways to help people learn from experience how does that sound for a change
