International Governance in the Wto 2004 aid to developing countries started well before world war ii but was undertaken as an ad hoc activity or was delivered by private organizations this changed after the war in his inaugural address in 1949 the american president harry truman announced a bold new programme for making the benefits of our scientific advances and industrial progress available for the improvement and growth of underdeveloped nations the so called point iv plan at that time it was thought that this support would be needed only for a limited number of years comparable to the marshall plan assistance to europe but reality proved to be different providing aid was a very long term affair since the fifties the aid provided has changed at different occasions in the beginning aid concentrated on constructing infrastructure such as roads railways dams and harbours in order to promote industrial development in the sixties aid to agriculture was added and in the seventies aid to social sectors basic needs was also provided the eighties brought worldwide debt problems major donors applied structural adjustment policies some called this the lost decade década perdida the nineties saw the arrival of the first environmental considerations and asked for attention for the role of women and good governance the form of aid changed from projects to programmes and budget support describing the different aid forms of the last 65 years and analysing

why aid changed from time to time are the subjects of this book professionals and students in the area of international cooperation will benefit from studying this history as at this moment old concepts are reappearing or applied by new donors like china is the pendulum really swinging back as louis emmerij at one point suggested

Europe 1985 the long standing parliamentary convention known as the royal prerogative has always allowed prime ministers to take the country to war without any formal approval by parliament the dramatic vote against any military strike on syria on 29 august 2013 blew that convention wide open and risks hampering great britain s role as a force for good in the world in the future will mps ever vote for war perhaps not and this book proposes a radical solution to the resulting national emasculation by writing the theory of a just war its causes conduct and ending into law parliament would allow the prime minister to act without hindrance thanks not to a royal prerogative but to a parliamentary one

Through the Paper Curtain 2008 this chatham house paper examines the nature of soviet relations with syria assessing the commitments made and the gains reaped by moscow and damascus in the economic military and political spheres after discussing soviet interests in the region in general and with regard to syria in particular the author traces the evolution of the relationship between moscow and its major middle eastern ally since asad came to power in 1970 while the study argues that huge soviet military aid has intensified the pro soviet alignment of syrian policy it contends that asad s perception of his country s national interests has also played a large part in shaping the relationship the author concludes that both sides have gained from what is an interdependent relationship if damascus remains almost wholly dependent on soviet military aid regional constraints give syria some leverage over moscow without moscow s support syria might perhaps not have played such a leading role in the region without damascus the soviet union might have found itself on the sidelines of the arab israeli conflict
