A Knock on the Door 2015-12-18 It can start with a knock on the door. One morning it is the local Indian agent or the parish priest or perhaps a mounted police officer so began the school experience of many Indigenous children in Canada for more than a hundred years and so begins the history of residential schools prepared by the Truth Reconciliation Commission of Canada. TRC between 2008 and 2015. The TRC provided opportunities for individuals, families and communities to share their experiences of residential schools and released several reports based on 7000 survivor statements and five million documents from government churches and schools as well as a solid grounding in secondary sources. A knock on the door published in collaboration with the National Research Centre for Truth Reconciliation gathers material from the several reports the TRC has produced to present the essential history and legacy of residential schools in a concise and accessible package that includes new materials to help inform and contextualize the journey to reconciliation that Canadians are now embarked upon survivor and former national chief of the assembly first nations phil fontaine provides a foreword and an afterword introduces the holdings and opportunities of the national centre for truth reconciliation home to the archive of recordings and documents collected by the trc as aimée craft writes in the afterword knowing the historical backdrop of residential schooling and its legacy is essential to the work of reconciliation in the past agents of the Canadian state knocked on the doors of indigenous families to take the children to school now the survivors have shared their truths and knocked back it is time for Canadians to open the door to mutual understanding respect and reconciliation
