Educational Leadership and Moral Literacy 2014-03-18 what makes a moral person moral who decides what morality means what makes leadership practice moral in today s schools what stands as moral leadership these are questions that reflect the complexity integral to the calculus of human morality especially in a world that is defined daily by its variant meanings of morality its acts of immorality the school as an educational setting is or should be a decidedly moral center of the society it is the natural intersect between the family and the multi dimensional nature of public life educational leadership and moral literacy addresses these questions situating the reader in a conversation that examines the meaning and nature of moral leadership through the lens of moral literacy and the dispositional aims of moral leadership in educational settings the contributing authors extend an argument that the work of leader educators and practitioners alike must continuously be re articulated around the dispositional aims aligned with a moral democratic education educators must be concerned with developing the moral intellectual and aesthetic dimensions of the educational leader as a moral person

Syllabi for the Academic Years ... 1895 john trevisa ca 1342 1402 perhaps the greatest of middle english prose translators of latin texts into english was almost an exact contemporary of geoffrey chaucer trevisa was born in cornwall studies at oxford and was instituted vicar of berkeley a position he held until his death over a period of thirty five years eminent medievalist david fowler has pieced together an account of trevisa s life and times by diligently seeking out documents bearing on his activities and translations this has resulted in a cultural history of fourteenth century england that ranges from the administrative geographical and linguistic status of cornwall to the curriculum of medieval university education and from religious and secular conflicts to the administration of a substantial provincial household and the role of its aristocratic keepers in the hundred years war fowler provides an analysis of trevis s known translations the gospel of nicodemus dialogus inter militem et clericum fitzralph s defensio curatorum the polychronicon de regimine principum and de proprietatibus rerum he also advances the hypothesis that trevisa was one of the scholars responsible for the first complete translation of the scriptures into english the wycliffite bible an appendix contains a collection of biographical and historical references designed to illustrate fowler s contention that trevisa may have been responsible for the revisions of piers the plowman now known as the b and c texts

The Scholar's History of England ... 1892 over the course of its history the german empire increasingly withheld basic rights such as joining the army holding public office and even voting as a form of legal punishment dishonored offenders were often stigmatized in both formal and informal ways as their convictions shaped how they were treated in prisons their position in the labour market and their access to rehabilitative resources with a focus on imperial germany s criminal policies and their afterlives in the weimar era citizens into dishonored felons demonstrates how criminal punishment was never solely a disciplinary measure but that it reflected a national moral compass that authorities used to dictate the rights to citizenship honour and trust

Citizens Into Dishonored Felons 2023-04-14 the last three decades have witnessed a proliferation of ngos engaging in new campaigns to end the practice of female genital cutting across africa these campaigns have in turn spurred new institutions discourses and political projects bringing about unexpected social transformations both intended and unintended consequently cutting is waning across the continent at the same time these endings are being disavowed by cross continental discourses that argue that cutting has become an object of a neocolonial racist gaze and western interventionist zeal what does it mean to say that while cutting is ending the western discourse surrounding it is on the rise and what kind of a feminist anthropology is needed in such a moment the twilight of cutting examines these and other questions from the vantage point of ghanaian feminist and reproductive health ngos that have organized campaigns against cutting for over thirty years the book looks at these ngos not as solutions but as sites of problematization the purpose of understanding ghanaian campaigns their transnational and regional encounters and the forms of governmentality they produce is not to charge them with providing answers to the question how do we end cutting instead it is to account for their work their historicity the life worlds and subjectivities they engender and the modes of reflection imminent critique and opposition they set in motion provided by publisher The New Scholar 1969 abolish criminology presents critical scholarship on criminology and criminal justice ideologies and practices alongside emerging freedom driven visions and practices for new world formations the book introduces readers to a detailed history and analysis of crime as a concept and its colonizing trajectories into existence and enforcement these significant contexts buried within peculiar academic histories and classroom practices are often overlooked or unknown outside academic and public discussions causing the impact of racializing gendering sexualizing histories to extend and grow through criminology s creation of crime extending how the concept is weaponized and enforced through the criminal legal system it offers written visual and poetic teachings from the perspectives of students professors imprisoned and formerly imprisoned persons and artists this allows readers to engage in multi sensory inter disciplinary and multi perspective teachings on criminology s often discussed but seldom interrogated mythologies on violence and danger and their wide reaching enforcements through the criminal legal system s research theories agencies and dominant cultures abolish criminology serves the needs of undergraduate and graduate students and educators in the social sciences arts and humanities it will also appeal to scholars researchers policy makers activists community organizers social movement builders and various reading groups in the general public who are grappling with increased critical public discourse on policing and criminal legal reform or abolition

Ethnomusicology 2013-10-28 vocational education and training vet can be difficult to define since it is set in a turbulent and volatile environment marked by national and regional specificities it can be delivered at different levels and by a variety of providers including community colleges colleges of further education polytechnics and universities as well as importantly private providers this collection reflects the shifting and often messy conceptualisations of vet on one level vet can be associated with the education and training of craft skilled workers or of those who are being prepared for a particular occupational destiny and specific position in the labour market in this instance notions of skill knowledge and dispositions are significant on another level it can raise questions over power and class formation in addition to the way in which these are mediated or intersect with race and gender moreover there are important political questions addressing the significance of vet in furthering social cohesion and economic regeneration in times of austerity when neoliberalism is hegemonic the chapters in this book are not all of a piece but each in its turn raises important questions about vet its relationship to the economy as well as its global setting this book was originally published as a special issue of globalisation societies and education

Mikhail Lomonosov in St. Petersburg 2022-07-24 what if we could do better than the family we need to talk about the family for those who are lucky families can be filled with love and care but for many they are sites of pain from abandonment and neglect to abuse and violence nobody is more likely to harm you than your family even in so called happy families the unpaid unacknowledged work that it takes to raise children and care for each other is endless and exhausting it could be otherwise in this urgent incisive polemic leading feminist critic sophie lewis makes the case for family abolition abolish the family traces the history of family abolitionist demands beginning with nineteenth century utopian socialist and sex radical charles fourier the communist manifesto and early twentieth century russian family abolitionist alexandra kollontai turning her attention to the 1960s lewis reminds us of the anti family politics of radical feminists like shulamith firestone and the gay liberationists a tradition she traces to the queer marxists bringing family abolition to the twenty first century this exhilarating essay looks at historic rightwing panic about black families and the violent imposition of the family on indigenous communities and insists only by thinking beyond the family can we begin to imagine what might come after

Statistics of Land-grant Colleges and Universities 1926 while german tourists visiting dresden are no longer quite as shocked by the old buildings they see everywhere they do still irritate tourists from abroad everything around the frauenkirche church of our lady smells of renovation and disneyland so one is made aware of the reconstruction however at the very latest questions start to arise on the way to pillnitz via the villa quarter blasewitz and the blaue wunder blue wonder bridge how could all of this have survived the firestorm after all it was a second hiroshima wasn't it dresden is legend a beautiful innocent city of art and culture and the german victimisation narrative without peer bombed unnecessarily shortly before the end of the war with hundreds of thousands dead it is a lie of allied war crimes with a rain of phosphorus and low flying fighters targeting the civilian population the allied air raids of 13 to 15 february 1945 are a fixed point of reference in dresden's memorial culture over the decades they have provided its climax and at any given time an expression of the prevailing politics of history the texts in this e book afford an overview of the substantive contents of and the developments in dresden's remembrance policies as well as furnishing a fundamental critique of current memorial politics of both the city and germany as a whole dresden presents an image of itself as a symbol of peace and reconciliation and in the meantime also as a symbol for accurate memorialisation as opposed to the historically revisionist version of the nazis the annual neo nazi marches have played no small part in provoking a re assessment of some of the legends leading to facts being researched and the nazi history of dresden described and defined is this enough shouldn't the commemoration itself be abolished
