An Anthology of African Art 2002 this important book documents stimulating and engaging reflections and thoughts from international writers and commentators who collectively validate and establish Soyinka as more than deserving of the honour of the Oxford Professorship of Poetry. The co-editors Ivor Agyeman Duah and Lucy Newlyn campaigned for the election of Soyinka and provide insightful analyses of the campaign while arguing for electoral reform. This is a must-read for anyone interested in the future of world literature and inclusiveness.

Modern African Prose 1964 showcasing the work of more than 200 women writers of African descent. This major international collection celebrates their contributions to literature and international culture. Twenty-five years ago Margaret Busby's groundbreaking anthology Daughters of Africa illuminated the silent, forgotten, underrated voices of Black women. Washington Post published to international acclaim, it was hailed as an extraordinary body of achievement, a vital document of lost history. Sunday Times' new Daughters of Africa continues that mission for a new generation, bringing together a selection of overlooked artists of the past with fresh and vibrant voices that have emerged from across the globe in the past two decades. From Antigua to Zimbabwe and Angola to the USA, key figures join popular contemporaries in paying tribute to the heritage that unites them. Each of the pieces in this remarkable collection demonstrates an uplifting sense of sisterhood, honours the strong links that endure from generation to generation, and addresses the common obstacles women writers of colour face as they negotiate issues of race, gender, and class, and confront vital matters of independence, freedom, and oppression, custom, tradition, friendships, sisterhood, romance, sexuality, intersectional feminism, the politics of gender, race, and identity. All and more are explored in this glorious collection of work from over 200 writers. Daughters of Africa spans a wealth of genres: autobiography, memoir, oral history, letters, diaries, short stories, novels, poetry, drama, humour, politics, journalism, essays, and speeches, to demonstrate the diversity and remarkable literary achievements of Black women who remain underrepresented and whose works continue to be under-rated in world culture today. Featuring women across the diaspora, Daughters of Africa illuminates the richness and cultural history of this original continent and its enduring influence while reflecting our own lives and issues today. Bold and insightful, brilliant in its intimacy and universality, this essential volume honours the talents of African daughters and the inspiring legacy that connects them and all of us.

African Short Stories in English 1985, a one-of-a-kind collection showcasing the energy of new African literature coming at a time when Africa and African writers are in the midst of a remarkable renaissance. Gods and Soldiers captures the vitality and urgency of African writing today, with stories from northern Arabic-speaking to southern Zulu-speaking writers. This collection conveys thirty different ways of approaching what it means to be African, whether about life in the new urban melting pots of Cape Town and Luanda or amid the battlefield chaos of Zimbabwe and Somalia, or set in the imaginary, surreal landscapes born out of the oral storytelling tradition. These stories represent a striking cross-section of extraordinary writing, including works by J. M. Coetzee, Chimamanda Adichie, Nuruddin Farah, Binyavanga Wainaina, and Chinua Achebe, and edited by Rob Spillman of Tin House magazine. Gods and Soldiers features many pieces never before published, making it a vibrant and essential glimpse of Africa as it enters the twenty-first century.

The Oxford Anthology of African-American Poetry 2006. This anthology presents the voices of a new generation of African poets drawn from across the continent and representing a wide range of themes, styles, and ideologies. These contemporary voices have been shaped in the realities of postcolonial Africa from the mid-1970s to the end of the 1990s.

Under African Skies 1999, a radical collection of love stories from African women. The collection combines the confidence of established and award-winning writers with the tentativeness and originality of budding writers from Africa and the African diaspora, focusing on love and radically debunking the myth about African women being poor and helpless victims. This anthology rather depicts their strength, complexity, and diversity.
