one of the keys to successful business process engineering is tight alignment of processes with organisational goals and values historically however it has always been difficult to relate different levels of organizational processes to the strategic and operational objectives of a complex organization with many interrelated and interdependent processes and goals this lack of integration is especially well recognized within the human resource management hrm discipline where there is a clearly defined need for greater alignment of hrm processes with the overall organizational objectives value focused business process engineering is a monograph that combines and extends the best on offer in information systems and operations research decision sciences modelling paradigms to facilitate gains in both business efficiency and business effectiveness

Leading investigators address all aspects of dual process theories: their core assumptions, conceptual foundations, and applications to a wide range of social phenomena. In 38 chapters, the volume addresses the pivotal role of automatic and controlled processes in attitudes and evaluation, social perception, thinking and reasoning, self-regulation, and the interplay of affect, cognition, and motivation. Current empirical and methodological developments are described. Critiques of the duality approach are explored, and important questions for future research identified.
