widow but money alone won't protect you when someone decides it's high time you met your maker. Margaret's next door neighbor considered her an odious busybody. The Reverend Reginald Pontefract wished she'd never set foot in St Andrew's and half the advisory board of the London Angel Alms Society heartily hoped she'd come down with a case of the gout before the next quarterly meeting. All in all, Margaret wasn't as well regarded as she'd always thought she was. But Mrs Jeffries and Inspector Witherspoon know that justice isn't a popularity contest and they won't rest until they sift through the suspects to catch a sinister scrooge. Inspector Witherspoon has never come up against a case which he couldn't solve with the help of his housekeeper Mrs Jeffries, but now he's confronted with a bewildering murder. It seems as though the victim has cheated his stockholders out of a fortune which leaves each of them with a strong motive for the crime. So Mrs Jeffries is confronted with a complex brew of murder and high finance. This time even she might not manage to add it all up. This charming series of Victorian Murder Mysteries features mild-mannered Inspector Witherspoon of Scotland Yard and more importantly Mrs Jeffries, his housekeeper, a policeman's widow, herself, her quick wits allow her to nudge the inspector in the right direction to solve the crime. It was true, Hannah Cameron was not well-liked, but were her friends or family the sort to stab her in the back? To almost everyone, the answer is clear: she was killed by a burglar. And since Inspector Witherspoon is not a burglary detective, he has to take a backseat to the odious Inspector Nivens. Mrs Jeffries and the rest of the household must really tiptoe around this time, and if they're not extra careful, it could be a matter of more bodies piling up before they're done. The case is an unexpected bother for Inspector Witherspoon's household already abuzz with plans for the holidays, but Scotland Yard wants this crime solved before Christmas. Now the busy sleuths must rally in support of their inspector, especially since the clues are harder to find than a silver sixpence in a plum pudding. Praise for the Mrs Jeffries Mysteries: it's Murder Most English all the way! The Literary Times: fascinating murder mystery, wit and style. A winning series. Mrs Jeffries is the Miss Marple of Victorian Mystery. The Paperback Forum: a ruthless end for a ruthless man. Harrison Nye may have been involved in some dubious business dealings, but no one ever expected him to be murdered. Now Inspector Witherspoon must root out the perpetrator of the underhanded deed. Nye's business associate visited him just hours before the murder and seems to know more than he's letting on. And when his maid disappears, this dirty business gets even deadlier. Now Mrs Jeffries and her staff must root through the sins of Nye's past to discover which one caught up with him. Praise for the Mrs Jeffries Mysteries: it's Murder Most English all the way! The Literary Times: fascinating murder mystery, wit and style. A winning series. Mrs Jeffries is the Miss Marple of Victorian Mystery. The Paperback Forum: Mrs Jeffries always keeps her friends close and now must keep an enemy even closer. If she is going to catch a killer, Inspector Nigel Nivens is not a nice man or a good investigator. In fact, he's terrible at his job and has always done everything he can to make life difficult for Inspector Witherspoon. But even his powerful family can't help him after he maliciously tried to hobble Witherspoon's last homicide investigation. He's been sent to a particularly difficult precinct in the East End of London as penance when a paid informant is found shot in an alley. Nivens thinks that if he can crack the case, he'll redeem himself and have a much-needed chance at impressing his superiors. But there's one big problem with his plan: Nivens's distinct antique pistol is found at the scene of the crime, and even more evidence is uncovered that links the inspector to the murder. Despite their mutual dislike, for Nivens, Mrs Jeffries and Inspector Witherspoon know the man isn't a cold-blooded killer. Now they'll just have to prove it. One of London's best-known and least-liked businessmen is murdered, and once again Mrs Jeffries has to help the inspector solve the case. This charming series of Victorian Murder Mysteries features mild-mannered Inspector Witherspoon of Scotland Yard and more importantly Mrs
