Violence and conflict are two of the greatest challenges the world will face in this millennium indeed since the turn of the century it is estimated that approximately four million people have died as a result of armed conflict ending these seemingly intractable conflicts is a priority for global stability however the signing of the peace accord or the ending of formal hostilities does not automatically bring a return to normality in these fractured societies in practice it is more likely that these fractured societies will face a period in the twilight between war and peace a time when the world turns its attention to new problems and seemingly more pressing matters leaving the country to struggle towards peace and a new social order the book s contributors deal with the challenges faced in creating the foundations for the development of a positive peace from a variety of multi disciplinary perspectives such as development studies politics psychoanalysis psychology sports studies and neuroscience this breadth of perspectives offers innovative insights into the grey space between war and peace which is home to millions of people across the globe and explores interventions which aim to create the conditions for positive post conflict reconstruction international institutions from the international monetary fund to the international olympic committee are perceived as bastions of sclerotic mediocrity at best and outright corruption at worst and this perception is generally not far off the mark in the wake of the 2008 financial crash daniel w drezner like so many others looked at the smoking ruins of the global economy and wondered why global economic governance structure had failed so spectacularly and what could be done to reform them in the future but then a funny thing happened as he surveyed their actions in the wake of the crash he realized that the evidence pointed to the exact opposite conclusion global economic governance had succeeded in the system worked drezner a renowned political scientist and international relations expert contends that despite the massive scale and reverberations of this latest crisis larger arguably than those that precipitated the great depression the global economy has bounced back remarkably well examining the major resuscitation efforts by the g 20 imf wto and other institutions he shows that thanks to the efforts of central bankers and other policymakers the international response was sufficiently coordinated to prevent the crisis from becoming a full fledged depression yet the narrative about the failure of multilateral economic institutions persists both because the great recession affected powerful nations whose governments managed their own economies poorly and because the most influential policy analysts who write the books and articles on the crisis hail from those nations nevertheless drezner argues while it s true that the global economy is still fragile these institutions survived the stress test of the financial crisis and may have even become more resilient and valuable in the process bucking the conventional wisdom about the new g zero world drezner rehabilitates the image of the much maligned international institutions and demolishes some of the most dangerous myths about the financial crisis the system worked is a vital contribution to our understanding of an area where the stakes could not be higher this unique new work of reference traces the origins of the modern laws of warfare from the earliest times to the present day relying on written records from as far back as 2400 bce and using sources ranging from the bible to security council resolutions the author pieces together the history of a subject which is almost as old as civilisation itself the author shows that as long as humanity has been waging wars it has also been trying to find ways of legitimising different forms of combatants and ascribing rules to them protecting civilians who are either inadvertently or intentionally caught up between them and controlling the use of particular classes of weapons that may be used in times of conflict thus it is that this work is divided into three substantial parts volume 1 on the laws affecting combatants and captives volume 2 on civilians and volume 3 on the law of arms control this second book on civilians examines four different topics the first topic deals with the targetting of civilians in times of war this discussion is one which has been largely governed by the developments of technologies which have allowed projectiles to be discharged over ever greater areas and attempts to prevent their indiscriminate utilisation have struggled to keep pace the second topic concerns the destruction of the natural environment with particular regard to the utilisation of starvation as a method of warfare and unlike the first topic this one has rarely changed over thousands of years although contemporary practices are beginning to represent a clear break from tradition the third topic is concerned with the long standing problems of civilians under the occupation of opposing military forces where the practices of genocide collective punishments and or reprisals and rape have occurred the final topic in this volume is about the theft or destruction of the property of the enemy in terms of either pillage or the intentional devastation of the cultural property of the opposition as a work of reference this set of three books is unrivalled and will be of immense benefit to scholars and practitioners researching and advising on the laws of warfare it also tells a story which throws fascinating new light on the history of international law and on the history of warfare itself leadership has been a persistent problem for researchers and theorists discovering how to create or produce leaders likewise has been a difficult challenge over the years written by an academic executive and coach the author focuses on three important converging aspects leadership followership and coaching focus on leaders is disproportionate to what actually occurs within most organisations especially the relationship between the leader and the followers that leadership is tantamount with being in control of a situation is challenged together with the belief that leadership capability is primarily shaped in line with a set of success criteria the coach plays a significant part in this process although rarely visible
