this volume is the first in a new series of studies on the frontiers of international law the term frontier is traditionally associated with proximity to a boundary or a demarcation line but it is also a connecting point i e a passage or channel between spaces that are usually considered as separate entities the series aims to explore the visible and imaginary boundaries of scholarship in international law it is designed to test the existing table of contents vocabulary and limits of public international law to investigate lines and linkages between centre and periphery and to re map or re think some of its conceptual boundaries the current volume is written in this spirit it deals with the tension between unity and diversification which has gained a central place in the debate under the label of fragmentation it explores the meaning articulation and risks of this phenomenon in a specific area international criminal justice it brings together established and fresh voices who analyse different sites and contestations of this concept as well as its context and specific manifestations in the interpretation and application of international criminal law the volume thereby connects discourse on fragmentation with broader inquiry on the merits and discontents of legal pluralism in public international law
