forgiveness can be difficult for us as human beings in the world people hardly forgive it is natural for a person not to forgive but to seek revenge however when you become a new man god expects you to forgive indeed one cardinal difference between the christian and the unbeliever is that the christian has the ability to forgive and release the offender a new man must be able to forgive this book will make forgiveness easy for you to do sometimes in remembering what somebody has done to us we forget that we have also wronged god and man from god s point of view a christian who cannot forgive is rather strange god will forgive you if you murder lie fornicate commit adultery and practise witchcraft however god will not forgive you if you bear someone a grudge that is the point at which god stops forgiving you do you want god to forgive you then forgive your brother do not allow unforgiveness in your heart to make you a wicked servant in the eyes of god bishop dag heward mills will show you through this blessed book how to know whether you have truly forgiven your offenders and how to be delivered from the snare of unforgiveness

in a world supposedly characterized by the production of new differences and cultural permutations resulting from the twin processes of globalization and cultural syncretisation hardly anything has remained as obscure and theoretically under theorized as the very notion of the new itself an inherent relativity often accompanies any contemplation of what is new or old as well as the question at which point the old turns into the new syncretism as both process and description hinges largely on the assumption and premise that what is observed has appropriately or inappropriately mixed categories culture religion language that are intrinsically alien to each other such a syncretic constellation is bound to result in something that may be considered new any definition of syncretism the syncretisation process and the appropriation of the notion new as useful heuristic tools must indeed be located within specific local contexts as such terms are unlikely to serve as adequate descriptions of homogenous sets of phenomena syncretism as a process is intertwined with processes of contextualization against this backdrop this book seeks to unravel and demystify the ideology of the new on the basis of concrete case studies from various regions across africa and beyond in sub saharan africa over the last two decades there has been an explosion of christianity this book sets out to identify its particular character focusing on a particular place greater accra the capital of ghana paul gifford examines a wide range of accra s new churches giving priority to mega churches every dimension discourse theological vision worship rituals music media involvement use of the bible conventions finances clientele is analysed gifford argues that this christianity is not otherworldly its emphasis is on success achievement wealth here and now yet within this general orientation there is diversity at one end of the spectrum are churches that building on the traditional religious imagination see demonic forces everywhere blocking personal success in the churches the key factor is the special man of god who is understood to have the anointing to conquer these forces to reverse the curse that is holding the believer back at the other end is a strain of this new christianity that discounts spiritual forces and sees victory resulting from the believer s own education and skills and from transforming culture the book also joins the debate over the role of this christianity in modernizing economic and political structures it sets the scene by describing ghana s political and economic situation in the decades when these churches were proliferating and outlines the current debate on the reasons for africa s economic plight it is argued that although focusing on success and wealth can provide motivation in circumstances where it is so easy to despair the pervasive emphasis on miracles militates against any natural fostering of a new work ethic as for their political role some churches are easily co opted others challenge the government but for spiritual reasons that provide little incentive to grapple with issues of governance by contrast gifford finds one important church encouraging change of the entire political culture no other book has set forth the complex nature of africa s new christianity with such clarity or offered such a searching analysis of its power to tackle africa s predicament
