life logs to record our experiences with increasing fidelity what will we use these logs for and what isn't recorded that should be chapter 7 technologies to search our information the potential for personalized search is enormous and mostly yet to be realized persistent searches situated in our information landscape will allow us to maintain a diversity of projects and areas of interest without a need to continually switch from one to another to handle incoming information chapter 8 technologies to structure our information structure is key if we are to keep find and make effective use of our information but how best to structure and how best to share structured information between the applications we use with other people and also with ourselves over time what lessons can we draw from the failures and successes in web based efforts to share structure chapter 9 pim transformed and transforming stories from the past present and future part 2 concludes with a comparison between licklider's world of information in 1957 and our own world of information today and then we consider what the world of information is likely to look like in 2057 licklider estimated that he spent 85 of his thinking time in activities that were clerical and mechanical and might someday be delegated to the computer what percentage of our own time is spent with the clerical and mechanical what about in 2057 a wildly entertaining historical adventure deep inside the crucible in which america was forged splendidly researched and wildly amusing historical adventure tom jones as the deerslayer kirkus reviews dearest shane i dream you as the leopard last night you came to me in his skin so in the voice of one of his lovers we first encounter shane hardacre the narrator and protagonist of fire along the sky an eloquent anglo irish rake and fictional kinsman of sir william johnson the king's superintendent of indians shane comes to the new world from london because of a doubtful wager i laid money on whether a man would take his own life as shane informs us that man was robert davers a norfolk baronet who sought to escape melancholia and learn the nature of the soul among the dream catchers of north america he ignored johnson's caution that if you go looking for the spirit world of indians you will find you are already inside it and found savage death during the pontiac revolt we enter the extraordinary world created by william johnson in the mohawk valley in the aftermath of the french and indian war in the time when america was forged we meet extraordinary historical figures the warrior chief pontiac and the delaware prophet who inspired his revolt angelique the pompadour of detroit molly brant and her brother joseph and patience wright the wax sybil an american spy in london who rivaled madame tussaud the action races from the notorious hell fire club in england to the murder of pontiac near st louis from mesmers performance for ben franklin in a paris salon to bigamy and intrigue in new orleans when an irish captain general held the city in the name of the spanish king fire along the sky is grand entertainment that carries lightly a wealth of original research summarized in the copious notes from the editor through the narrators worldly skepticism we are given a window into the shamanic dream practices of early native americans the voice of valerie darcy in the correspondence interwoven with shanes narrative provides a knowing womans counterpoint to shanes phallogocentric assumptions i had intended to burn all your manuscripts but i now see that this would do a disservice to those in future times who may wish to know the secret springs of our history in this world turned upside down with a detailed range of approaches this new collection investigates how cinematic narratives can and have been used to portray different political threats and dangers including a range of chapters with a contemporary focus it studies issues such as how the geopolitical world has been constructed through film how cinema can provide explanatory narratives in periods of cultural and political anxiety uneasiness and uncertainty examining the ways in which film impacts upon popular understandings of national identity and the changing geopolitical world the book looks at how audiences make sense of the geo political messages and meanings contained within a variety of films from the us productions of hollywood to palestinian mexican british and german cinematic traditions this thought provoking book draws on an international range of contributions to discuss and fully investigate world cinema in light of key contemporary issues this book was previously published as a special issue of geopolitics in this book augusto rodriguez provides a historical survey of the different paradigms of christianity in order to understand how and why the church has changed her concept of being the church and of mission this book will help in understanding how the different paradigms of christianity throughout history have changed the church's self understanding of being the church and of mission rodriguez's aim is to provide an opportunity for christians to see the different paradigms the church has gone through and understand the present situation of the church in order to live out as fully as possible the new testament understanding of its mission and better accomplish the task ziauddin sardar questions the question mark that is always placed in front of pakistan robin yassin kassab asks why pakistan has not by foregrounding the ways that human existence is bound together with the lives of other entities contemporary cultural theorists have sought to move beyond an anthropocentric worldview yet as eva haifa giraud contends in what comes after entanglement for all their conceptual power in implicating humans in ecologically damaging practices these theories can undermine scope for political action drawing inspiration from activist projects between the 1980s and the present that range from anticapitalist media experiments and vegan food activism to social media campaigns against animal research giraud explores possibilities for action while fleshing out the tensions between theory and practice rather than an activist ethics based solely on relationality and entanglement giraud calls for what she describes as an ethics of exclusion which would attend to the entities practices and ways of being that are foreclosed when other entangled realities are realized such an ethics of exclusion emphasizes foreclosures in the context of human entanglement in order to foster the conditions for people to create meaningful political change

We know everyone dies but then what our world can offer plenty of theories and opinions about the afterlife. Reincarnation, oblivion, judgment, purgatory, heaven, nirvana, and hell. To list only the well-known ones but what's true and what's not can we afford to be surprised? Do we really want to be surprised especially when there is reliable information about it? The Bible calls God's promises about the afterlife hope but Christian hope is more than just a happy wish. It is a confident expectation and it's basic to Christian motivation, obedience, and perseverance. But the specifics of this hope often get muddled in the midst of a modern jumble of religious ideas. Next is a careful study of the wonderful Christian hope found in the Bible. It was written to be read and understood by a wide audience as it deals honestly and kindly with even sensitive subjects. Park Linscomb has been a minister of the Church of Christ for over 40 years in the mission field of New England. He holds a BA in Bible from Lubbock Christian University and a MSHS in Counseling and Psychology from Southern New Hampshire University. Beyond Bible study and ministry he has active side interests in biblical archaeology, psychology, technology, and family. He is married, Linda, and has a son, Adam, daughter in law, Meri, and two wonderful grandsons, Jackson and Jordan.
