drawing on his rich louisiana past ernest j gains creates a fictional world representative of the human experience his work explores the complex racial relationships so much a part of southern history and culture and the unwritten and unspoken conventions of caste and class often structured around journeys of discovery gains works affirm the integrity of the individual and the unequivocal place in american life for americans of african descent this study offers a clear accessible reading of gains fiction it analyzes in turn all of gains novels as well as his collection of short stories a complete bibliography of gains fiction as well as selected reviews and criticism completes the study following a biographical chapter on gains life an overview of his fiction explores his work in light of his literary heritage and use of genre each of the following chapters examines an individual novel catherine carmier 1964 of love and dust 1967 the autobiography of miss jane pittman 1971 in my father's house 1978 a gathering of old men 1983 a lesson before dying 1994 and a collection of short stories bloodline 1968 the discussion of each work includes sections on plot and character development thematic issues and an alternative critical approach from which to read the novel carmean shows how each of gains novels focuses on themes of personal value and place and affirms the need for recognizing the value of the individual regardless of race this study will help readers to understand the compelling issue of human relationships raised by gains and to see why he is one of america's finest writers

as nathan huggins once stated altering american history to account fully for the nation s black voices would change the tone and meaning the frame and the substance of the entire story rather than a sort of pilgrim s progress tale of bold ascent and triumph american history with the black parts told in full would be transmuted into an existential tragedy closer huggins said to sartre s no exit than to the vision of life in bunyan the relation between memory and history has received increasing attention both from historians and from literary critics in this volume a group of leading scholars has come together to examine the role of historical consciousness and imagination in african american culture the result is a complex picture of the dynamic ways in which african american historical identity constantly invents and transmits itself in literature art oral documents and performances each of the scholars represented has chosen a different site of memory from a variety of historical and geographical points and from different ideological theoretical and artistic perspectives yet the book is unified by a common concern with the construction of an emerging african american cultural memory the renowned group of contributors including hazel carby werner sollors vèvè clark catherine clinton and nellie mckay among others consists of participants of the five year series of conferences at the dubois institute at harvard university from which this collection originated conducted under the leadership of geneviève fabre melvin dixon and the late nathan huggins the conferences and as a result this book represent something of a cultural moment themselves and scholars and students of american and african american literature and history will be richer as a result in spite of the existence of statistics and numerical data on various aspects of african american life including housing earnings assets unemployment household violence teen pregnancy and encounters with the criminal justice system social science literature on how racism affects the everyday interactions of african american families is limited how does racism come home to and affect african american families if a father in an african american family is denied employment on the basis of his race or a wife is demeaned at work by racist slurs how is their family life affected given the lack of social science literature responding to these questions this volume turns to an alternative source in order to address them literature engaging with novels written by african american authors it explores their rich depictions of african american family life showing how these can contribute to our sociological knowledge and making the case for the novel as an object and source of social research as such it will appeal to scholars and students of the sociology of the family race and ethnicity cultural studies and literature winner of the benjamin l hooks national book award winner of the michael nelson prize of the international association for media and history in 1964 nina simone sat at a piano in new york s carnegie hall to play what she called a show tune then she began to sing alabama s got me so upset tennessee made me lose my rest and everybody knows about mississippi goddam simone and her song became icons of the civil rights movement but her confrontational style was not the only path taken by black women entertainers in how it feels to be free ruth feldstein examines celebrated black women performers illuminating the risks they took their roles at home and abroad and the ways that they raised the issue of gender amid their demands for black liberation feldstein focuses on six women who made names for themselves in the music film and television industries simone lena horne miriam makeba abbey lincoln diahann carroll and cicely tyson these women did not simply mirror black activism their performances helped constitute the era s political history makeba connected america s struggle for civil rights to the fight against apartheid in south africa while simone sparked high profile controversy with her incendiary lyrics yet feldstein finds nuance in their careers in 1968 hollywood cast the outspoken lincoln as a maid to a white family in for love of ivy adding a layer of complication to the film that same year diahann carroll took on the starring role in the television series julia was julia a landmark for casting a black woman or for treating her race as unimportant the answer is not clear cut yet audiences gave broader meaning to what sometimes seemed to be apolitical performances how it feels to be free demonstrates that entertainment was not always just entertainment and that we shall overcome was not the only soundtrack to the civil rights movement by putting black women performances at center stage feldstein sheds light on the meanings of black womanhood in a revolutionary time
