Maphead 2011-09-20

this book traces the history of mapmaking while offering insight into the role of cartography in human civilization and sharing anecdotes about the cultural arenas frequented by map enthusiasts it comes as no surprise that as a kid jeopardy legend ken jennings slept with a bulky hammond world atlas by his pillow every night it recounts his lifelong love affair with geography and explores why maps have always been so fascinating to him and to fellow enthusiasts everywhere he takes readers on a world tour of geogeeks from the london map fair to the computer programmers at google earth each chapter delves into a different aspect of map culture highpointing geocaching road atlas rallying even the unreal estate charted on the maps of fiction and fantasy he also considers the ways in which cartography has shaped our history suggesting that the impulse to make and read maps is as relevant today as it has ever been

The Doctor in the Victorian Novel 2013-04-28

with the character of the doctor as her subject tabitha sparks follows the decline of the marriage plot in the victorian novel as victorians came to terms with the scientific revolution in medicine of the mid to late nineteenth century the novel s progressive distance from the conventions of the marriage plot can be indexed through a rising identification of the doctor with scientific empiricism a narrative s stance towards scientific reason sparks argues is revealed by the fictional doctor s relationship to the marriage plot thus novels that feature romantic doctors almost invariably deny the authority of empiricism as is the case in george macdonald s adela cathcart in contrast works such as wilkie collins s heart and science which highlight clinically minded or even sinister doctors uphold the determining logic of science and in turn threaten the novel s romantic plot by focusing on the figure of the doctor rather than on a scientific theme or medical field sparks emulates the victorian novel s personalization of tropes and belief systems using the realism associated with the doctor to chart the sustainability of the victorian novel s central imaginative structure the marriage plot as the doctors sparks examines increasingly stand in for the encroachment of empirical knowledge on a morally formulated artistic genre their alienation from the marriage plot and its interrelated decline succinctly herald the end of the victorian era and the beginning of modernism

Melville, Mapping and Globalization 2011-10-27

in melville mapping and globalization robert tally argues that melville does not belong in the tradition of the american renaissance but rather creates a baroque literary cartography artistically engaging with spaces beyond the national model at a time of intense national consolidation and cultural centralization melville discovered the postnational forces of an emerging world system a system that has become our own in the era of globalization drawing on the work of a range of literary and social critics including deleuze foucault jameson and moretti tally argues that melville s distinct literary form enabled his critique of the dominant national narrative of his own time and proleptically undermined the national literary tradition of american studies a century later melville s hypercanonical status in the united states makes his work all the more crucial for understanding the role of literature in a post american epoch offering bold new interpretations and theoretical juxtapositions tally presents a postnational melville well suited to establishing new approaches to american and world literature in the twenty first century

The Fact of the Cage 2021-02-18

david foster wallace s infinite jest raised expectations of what a novel might do as he understood fiction to aim at what it means to be human so he hoped his work might relieve the loneliness of human suffering in that light the fact of the cage shows how wallace s masterpiece dramatizes the condition of encagement and how it comes to be met by abiding and through inter relational acts of speaking and hearing touching and facing revealing wallace s theology of a boneless christ the fact of the cage wagers that reading such a novel as infinite jest makes available to readers the redemption glimpsed in its pages that reading fiction has ethical and religious significance in short that reading infinite jest makes one better as such plank s work takes steps to defend the ethics of fiction the vital relation between religion and literature and why one just might read at all

Realism, Form, and Representation in the Edwardian Novel 2021-01-07

the real represents to my perception the things that we cannot possibly not know sooner or later in one way or another wrote henry james in 1907 this description riven with double negatives hesitation and uncertainty encapsulates the epistemological difficulties of realism for underlying its narrative and descriptive apparatus as an aesthetic mode lies a philosophical quandary what grounds the real of the realist novel what kind of perception is required to validate the experience of reality how does the realist novel represent the difficulty of knowing what comes to the fore in james's account as in so many is how the forms of realism are constituted by a relation to unknowing absence and ineffability realism form and representation in the edwardian novel recovers a neglected literary history centred on the intricate relationship between fictional representation and philosophical commitment it asks how or if we can conceptualize realist novels when the objects of their representational intentions are realities that might exist beyond what is empirically verifiable by sense data or analytically verifiable by logic and are thus irreducible to conceptual schemes or linguistic practices a formulation charlotte jones refers to as synthetic realism in new readings of edwardian novels including conrad's nostromo and the secret agent wells's tonobungay and ford's the good soldier this volume revises and reconsiders key elements of realist novel theory metaphor and metonymy character interiority the insignificant detail omniscient narration and free indirect discourse causal linearity to uncover the representational strategies by which realist writers grapple with the recalcitrance of reality as a referential anchor and seek to give form to the force opacity and uncertain scope of realities that may lie beyond the material in restoring a metaphysical dimension to the realist novel's imaginary realism form and representation in the edwardian novel offers a new conceptualization of realism both within early twentieth century literary culture and as a transhistorical mode of representation

The One Vs. the Many 2003

does a novel focus on one life or many alex woloch uses this simple question to develop a powerful new theory of the realist novel based on how narratives distribute limited attention among a crowded field of characters his argument has important implications for both literary studies and narrative theory characterization has long been a troubled and neglected problem within literary theory through close readings of such novels as pride and prejudice great expectations and le père goriot woloch demonstrates that the representation of any character takes place within a shifting field of narrative attention and obscurity each individual whether the central figure or a radically subordinated one emerges as a character only through his or her distinct and contingent space within the narrative as a whole the character space as woloch defines it marks the dramatic interaction between an implied person and his or her delimited position within a narrative structure the organization of and clashes between many character spaces within a single narrative totality is essential to the novel s very achievement and concerns striking at issues central to narrative poetics the aesthetics of realism and the dynamics of literary representation woloch s discussion of character space allows for a different history of the novel and a new definition of characterization itself by making the implied person indispensable to our understanding of literary form this book offers a forward looking avenue for contemporary narrative theory exploring enlightenment attitudes toward things and their relation to human subjects this collection offers a geographically wide ranging perspective on what the eighteenth century looked like beyond british or british colonial borders to highlight trends fashions and cultural imports of truly global significance the contributors draw their case studies from western europe russia africa latin america and oceania this survey underscores the multifarious ways in which new theoretical approaches such as thing theory or material and visual culture studies revise our understanding of the people and objects that inhabit the phenomenological spaces of the eighteenth century rather than focusing on a particular geographical area or on the global as a juxtaposition of regions with a distinctive cultural footprint this collection draws attention to the unforeseen relational maps drawn by things in their global peregrinations celebrating the logic of serendipity that transforms the object into some thing else when it is placed in a new locale

Eighteenth-Century Thing Theory in a Global Context 2016-04-29

the ordnance survey and modern irish literature offers a fresh new look at the origins of literary modernism in ireland tracing a history of irish writing through james clarence mangan j m synge w b yeats james joyce and samuel beckett beginning with the archives of the ordnance survey which mapped ireland between 1824 and 1846 the book argues that one of the sources of irish modernism lies in the attempt by the survey to produce a comprehensive archive of a land emerging rapidly into modernity the ordnance survey instituted a practice of depicting the country as modern fragmented alienated and troubled both diagnosing and representing a landscape burdened with the paradoxes of colonial modernity subsequent literature returns in varying ways both imitative and combative to the complex representational challenge that the survey confronts and seeks to surmount from a colonial mapping project to an engine of nationalist imagining and finally a framework by which to evade the claims of the postcolonial nation the ordnance survey was a central imaginative source of what makes irish modernist writing both formally innovative and politically challenging drawing on literary theory studies of space the history of cartography postcolonial theory archive theory and the field irish studies the ordnance survey and modern irish literature paints a picture of irish writing deeply engaged in the representation of a multi layered landscape insight is not a very popular word in psychology or biology popular terms like intelligence planning complexity or cognitive have a habit of sprawling out to include everyone s favourite interpretation and end up with such vague meanings that each new writer has to redefine them for use insight remains in everyday usage as a down to earth lay term for a deep shrewd or discerning kind of understanding insight is a good thing to have so it s important to find out how it evolved and that s what this book is about coming 20 years after publication of richard byrne s seminal book the thinking ape evolving insight develops a new theory of the evolutionary origins of human abilities to understand the world of objects and other people defining mental representation and computation as insight it reviews the evidence for insight in the cognition of animals the book proposes that the understanding of causality and intentionality evolved twice in human ancestry the pretty good understanding given by behaviour parsing shared with other apes and related to cerebellar expansion and the deeper understanding which requires language to model and is unique to humans however ape type insight may underlie non verbal tests of intentionality and causal understanding and much everyday human action accessible to those with little background in the topic evolving insight is an important new work for anyone with an interest in psychology and the biological sciences
