entrepreneurs and managers policymakers and practitioners of start up initiatives and technology transfer organisations the increase in the number of countries that have abolished the death penalty since the end of the second world war shows a steady trend towards worldwide abolition of capital punishment this book focuses on the political and legal issues raised by the death penalty in countries in transition understood as countries that have transitioned or are transitioning from conflict to peace or from authoritarianism to democracy in such countries the politics that surround retaining or abolishing the death penalty are embedded in complex state building processes in this context madoka futamura and nadia bernaz bring together the work of leading researchers of international law human rights transitional justice and international politics in order to explore the social political and legal factors that shape decisions on the death penalty whether this leads to its abolition reinstatement or perpetuation covering a diverse range of transitional processes in asia africa latin america europe and the middle east the politics of the death penalty in countries in transition offers a broad evaluation of countries whose death penalty policies have rarely been studied the book would be useful to human rights researchers and international lawyers in demonstrating how transition and transformation provide the catalyst for several of interrelated developments of which one is the reduction and elimination of capital punishment globalization and armed conflict addresses one of the most important and controversial issues of our time does global economic integration foster or suppress violent disputes within and between states here cutting edge research by leading figures in international relations shows that expanding commercial ties between states pacifies some but not necessarily all political relationships the authors demonstrate that the pacific effect of economic integration hinges on democratic structures the size of the global system the nature of the trade goods and a reduced influence of the military on political decisions in
