caught in the geneva seduction in deadly virtue heather martel argues that the french protestant attempt to colonize florida in the 1560s significantly shaped the developing concept of race in sixteenth century america telling the story of the short lived french settlement of fort caroline in what is now jacksonville florida martel reveals how race gender sexuality and christian morality intersected to form the foundations of modern understandings of whiteness equipped with calvinist theology and humoral science an ancient theory that the human body is subject to physical change based on one s emotions and environment french settlers believed their christian love could transform the cultural spiritual and political allegiances of indigenous people but their conversion efforts failed when the colony was wiped out by the spanish martel explains that the french took this misfortune as a sign of god s displeasure with their collaborative ideals and from this historical moment she traces the growth of separatist colonial strategies through the logic of calvinist predestination martel argues colonists came to believe that white christian bodies were beautiful virtuous entitled to wealth and chosen by god the history of fort caroline offers a key to understanding the resonances between religious morality and white supremacy in america today named a most anticipated book of 2023 by the millions a vibrant and illuminating exploration of medieval thinking on women s beauty sexuality and behavior what makes for the ideal woman how should she look love and be in this vibrant high spirited history medievalist eleanor janega turns to the middle ages the era that bridged the ancient world and modern society to unfurl its suppositions about women and reveal what s shifted over time and what hasn t enshrined medieval thinkers almost always male subscribed to a blend of classical greek and roman philosophy and christian theology for their concepts of the sexes for the height of female attractiveness they chose the mythical helen of troy whose imagined pear shape small breasts and golden hair served as beauty s epitome casting eve s shadow over medieval women they derided them as oversexed sinners inherently lustful insatiable and weak and unless a nun a woman was to be the embodiment of perfect motherhood in contrast drawing on accounts of remarkable and subversive medieval women like eleanor of aquitaine and hildegard of bingen along with others hidden in documents and court cases janega shows us how real women of the era lived while often mothers they were industrious farmers brewers textile workers artists and artisans and paved the way for new ideas about women s nature intellect and ability in the once and future sex janega unravels the restricting expectations on medieval women and the ones on women today she boldly questions why if our ideas of women have changed drastically over time we cannot reimagine them now to create a more equitable future we speak to ourselves at a rate of 1 300 words per minute making constant assessments and judgments often filtered through sinful and selfish agendas women acknowledge that they are particularly vulnerable to this temptation and dangers of self talk as they compare and judge themselves against others the silent seduction of self talk provides a readable narrative and practical tools that help readers surface the inner conflicts that churn below the waterline of their awareness these dialogues can make them blind to the scriptural truth that the vision they hold of themselves and the reality of their walk in christ are often polar opposites shelley explores real life examples and includes tools to assist in the spiritual disciplines of self assessment repentance commitment and transformation how do you take your tea the beast of whitherward fell has been blamed for a great many mysterious events and gruesome murders on that wildest perilous stretch
