Building the Capacity of the Third Sector

2009

this nao report hc 132 session 2008 09 isbn 9780102954579 examines changeup and futurebuilders two cabinet office programmes designed to build the capacity of the third sector the third sector consists of non governmental organisations which are value driven and which principally reinvest their surpluses to further social environmental or cultural objectives the sector includes voluntary and community organisations charities social enterprises cooperatives and mutuals it is distinguished from the other two sectors of the economy public government and private business both changeup and futurebuilders were introduced by the home office in 2004 to address the findings of a 2002 treasury review that the third sector s ability to contribute to the delivery of public services was constrained by a lack of capacity the nao examined the impact of these programmes on frontline third sector organisations and looked at whether they are likely to meet the government s objectives for building capacity for both schemes it is not yet possible to establish if the programmes have provided good value for money the report s findings and recommendations to improve the management of these programmes include that when designing future policy initiatives the office of the third sector should build in adequate arrangements to evaluate and measure performance from the outset a transfer between old and new financial systems has impaired the assessment of the costs and benefits of the changeup programme and that the cabinet office and treasury should advise departments of the importance of preserving adequate financial information the office of the third sector should identify examples of sustainable services the cabinet office needs to formulate a plan for the long term management of the assets created by the futurebuilders fund

Chronicles from the Environmental Justice Frontline

2001-09-24

chronicles from the environmental justice frontline first published in 1991 provides a rare glimpse of the environmental justice movement as it plays out in four landmark struggles at the end of the twentieth century the book describes the stories of everyday people who have decided to take to the streets to battle what they perceive as injustice the unequal exposure of minorities and the poor to the bads produced by our industrial society in these struggles residents and local state and national environmental and social justice groups are on one side pitted against local and state government representatives and industry on the other by employing historical and theoretical lenses in viewing these struggles the book reveals how situations of environmental injustice are created and how they are resolved these cases bear great similarity to battles occurring across the nation and are setting precedents for national and state agencies as they handle these cases

Understanding Quality Peace

2018-01-29

this book provides an analytical framework for understanding how the concept of quality peace can be used to evaluate post conflict peacebuilding using social science statistics and case studies including contributions from more than 20 researchers and practitioners it argues that the quality of the peace in a post conflict state relates to the extent to which peace accords are implemented the agreed upon mechanism for the non violent resolution of the conflict and the available social space for civil and political actors to arrive at the concept of quality peace the authors evaluate the existing literature and identify a lack of a satisfactory means of measuring outcomes and consequently how these might be researched comparatively the volume problematizes the quality peace concept as a way to understand the origins of armed conflict as well as problems deriving from the conflict dynamics and the need for social political and economic changes in the post conflict periods the book emphasizes five dimensions as crucial for quality peace in a post accord society negotiations and agreements not only aim at avoiding the return of war but also seek to 1 promote reconciliation 2 develop mechanisms for resolving future disputes 3 provide for reliable security 4 open economic opportunities for marginalized segments of the population and 5 generate space for civil society these five dimensions together provide for quality peace after war they are studied in the context of internal armed conflicts in which multiple parties have signed a peace agreement this book will be of great interest to students of peace and conflict studies civil wars global governance security studies and international relations in general
