a companion to phenomenology and existentialism is a complete guide to two of the dominant movements of philosophy in the twentieth century written by a team of leading scholars including Dagfinn Føllesdal, J. N. Mohanty, Robert Solomon, Jean-Luc Marion. Highlights the area of overlap between the two movements. Features longer essays discussing each of the main schools of thought, shorter essays introducing prominent themes, and problem-oriented chapters organized topically around concepts such as temporality, intentionality, death, and nihilism. Features essays on unusual subjects such as medicine, the emotions, artificial intelligence, and environmental philosophy.

Olivia Manning 1992-12-03

This book explores poems, novels, legends, operas, and other genres of writing from the Ming Dynasty. It is composed of two parts: the literary history and comprehensive reference materials based on the compilation of several chronologies by studying individual literary works; the book analyzes the basic laws of the development of literature during the Ming Dynasty and explores the influences of people, time, and place on literature from a sociological perspective. In turn, it conducts a contrastive analysis of Chinese and Western literature based on similar works from the same literary genre and their creative methods. The book also investigates the relationship between literary theory and literary creation practices, including those used at various poetry schools. In closing, it studies the unique aesthetic traits of related works, sharing valuable insights and perspectives. The book can serve as a role model for future literary history studies. It offers a unique resource for literary researchers, a reference guide for students and educators, and a lively read for members of the general public.
