the author attempts to spell out the islamic principles on which business enterprise should be based specially in the area of partnership he displays a strikingly acute awareness of islamic laws on the subject matched by an equally striking awareness of the forms of business organization in vogue in the contemporary world the work represents a serious scholarly effort to sort out complicated questions such as those mentioned above to enunciate islamic principles relative to business enterprise and to apply them in the changed context of present day business the present volume is a continuation of imran ahsan khan nyazee s islamic law of business organization partnerships the present volume like the previous one is focused on the islamic law of business organization it builds on the theoretical principles derived from the islamic sources which bear on business organization and were outlined in volume 1 the quintessential difference between the two volumes is that as distinguished from the previous one the present volume has a more pronouncedly practical and contemporaneous orientation the present volume thus attempts to apply the principles deemed essential from the islamic point of view to critically examining the modern corporation and in determining if there is any conflict between the principles on which it is structured and the principles of islamic law in this regard the present volume carefully considers the concept of corporate personality and also examines the possibility of accommodating that concept within the parameters of islamic law in continuation of the previous volume it has also been shown that the sharikah based model with reference to the modern corporation is far more preferable to the mudarabah based model which as noted in the previous volume was found defective in the light of the above the author attempts to develop an islamic form of the modern corporation that would be free of riba and of other infractions of islamic principles from which the current forms of business organization suffer the author hopes that this islamized corporation will have the flexibility of the modern corporation and would thus be at once islamically sound and of contemporary relevance the indian listener fortnightly programme journal of air in english published by the indian state broadcasting service bombay started on 22 december 1935 and was the successor to the indian radio times in english which was published beginning in july 16 of 1927 from 22 august 1937 onwards it was published by all india radio new delhi from july 3 1949 it was turned into a weekly journal later the indian listener became akashvani in january 5 1958 it was made a fortnightly again on july 1 1983 it used to serve the listener as a bradshaw of broadcasting and give listener the useful information in an interesting manner about programmes who writes them take part in them and produce them along with photographs of performing artists it also contains the information of major changes in the policy and service of the organisation name of the journal the indian listener language of the journal

ashur is the most renowned zaytuna imam and one of the great islamic scholars of the 20th century the publication of this translation of shaikh ibn ashur s treatise on maqasid al shariah is a breakthrough in studies on islamic law in the english language in this book ibn ashur proposed maqasid as a methodology for the renewal of the theory of islamic law which has not undergone any serious development since the era of the great imams ibn ashur quite courageously also addressed the sensitive topic of the intents maqasid of prophet muhammad saas behind his actions and decisions he introduced criteria to differentiate between the prophetic traditions that were meant to be part of islamic law and the prophetic actions sayings that were meant to be for the sake of specific purposes such as political leadership court judgment friendly advice and conflict resolution but ibn ashur s most significant contribution in this book has been the development of new maqasid by coining new contemporary terminology that were never formulated in traditional usul al fiqh for example ibn ashur developed the theory of the preservation of lineage into the preservation of the family system the protection of true belief into freedom of beliefs etc he also introduced the concepts of orderliness natural disposition freedom rights civility and equality as maqasid in their own right and upon which the whole islamic law is based this development opens great opportunities for islamic law to address current and real challenges for muslim societies and muslim minorities the four articles two review essays various book reviews and obituary contained in this issue all revolve around contestations of islamic authority notably two of these articles are drawn from the ajis symposium on maqāṣid whose first set of essays were featured in the previous issue 38 3 4 dedicated to the topic in the first article agents of grace ali altaf mian develops a sophisticated and nuanced reading of intentionality in the work of the moral theologian al ghazali mian reads the latter's work to disclose ethical action as a site of contingency and ambivalence indeed of the subject's non-sovereignty he contributes this theorization of intentionality as a constructive critique of accounts of ethical agency in the anthropology of islam in the second article no scholars in the west emily goshey carefully unpacks the ostensible paradox by which western salafis who studied in the muslim world are not seen as scholars by the very communities they lead what then comprises religious authority and scholarship within these models of knowledge transmission goshey tracks the dynamics of scholarship and community leadership based on fieldwork with african american salafi affiliate communities in philadelphia in the third article maqāṣidi models for an islamic medical ethics aasim padela presents a typology of maqāṣid based approaches to medical ethics whether requiring a field based redefinition a conceptual extension or a text based postulation of the classical maqāṣid theory however padela shows that these frameworks remain woefully underdeveloped to offer appropriate and sufficient guidance for pressing bedside cases in the fourth article developing an ethic of justice thahir jamal kiliyamannil offers a creative rereading of new muslim movements in south india rather than relying on old typologies about political islam or secularized activists he considers the solidarity youth movement to articulate an islamic ethic of justice inspired by abul a la maududi this case study shows not only how the maqāsid framework may inform discourses well beyond the domains of legal practice but also how this specific articulation of political justice is based in the praxis of the indian muslim minority these four articles and the remaining elements of the issue foreground contemporary contestations of islamic authority read together they also offer a set of terms for thinking productively about its contours limits affordances and possibilities judaism christianity and islam all impose obligations and constraints upon the rightful use of wealth and earthly resources all three of these religions have well researched views on the acceptability of practices such as usury but the principles and practices of other non interest financial instruments are less well known this book examines each of these three major world faiths considering their teachings social precepts and economic frameworks which are set out as a guide for the financial dealings and economic behaviour of their adherents the hidayah has dominated the field of islamic jurisprudence since the day it was written over 800 years ago it has been the primary text used by muslims jurist to issue authentic and reliable rulings on islamic law according to the school of imam abu hanifa d 150h 767ce the hidayah commands such an authoritative position amongst the doctors of law that the knowledge of a scholar who has not read it is not considered reliable it has been a standard text in the curricula of islamic law schools since the 12th century it was first translated into english by charles hamilton in 1791 around 70 huge commentaries some spread over more than a dozen volumes have been written on it the number of explanatory glosses is in thousands comprehensive in content and conveniently organized with the

Judaism, Christianity, and Islam all impose obligations and constraints upon the rightful use of wealth and earthly resources. All three of these religions have well-researched views on the acceptability of practices such as usury, but the principles and practices of other non-interest financial instruments are less well known. This book examines each of these three major world faiths, considering their teachings, social precepts, and economic frameworks, which are set out as a guide for the financial dealings and economic behaviour of their adherents.
