water is becoming one of the world's most crucial concerns a third of the world's population has severe water shortage while three quarters of the global population lives in deltas which run the risk of severe flooding in addition many more face problems of poor water quality while it is apparent that drastic action should be taken in reality water problems are complex and not at all easy to resolve there are many stakeholders involved industries local municipalities farmers the recreational sector environmental organisations and others who all approach the problems and possible solutions differently this requires delicate ways of governing multi actor processes this book approaches the concept of water management from an interdisciplinary and non technical but governance orientation it departs from the fragmented nature of water management showing how these lack cooperation joint responsibility and integration and instead argues that the capacity to connect to other domains levels scales organizations and actors is of utmost importance connective capacity revolves around connecting arrangements such as institutions actors for instance individuals and approaches such as instruments these three carriers of connectedness can be applied to different focal points the objects of fragmentation and integration in water management the book distinguishes five different focal points 1 government layers and levels 2 sectors and domains 3 time orientation of the long and the short term 4 perceptions and actor frames 5 public and private spheres each contributor pays attention to a specific combination of one focal point and one connective carrier bringing together case studies from countries including the netherlands united kingdom romania sweden finland italy india canada and the united states the book focuses on the question of how to deal with the various sources of fragmentation in water governance by organizing meaningful connections and developing connective capacity in doing so it provides useful scientific and practical insights into how connective capacity in water governance can be enhanced a very timely and topical volume concerned with the impact of the Lisbon Treaty on the European Union's capacity to further develop a distinctive foreign policy in accordance with the various policy instruments necessary to fulfil its role as a global actor. This edited volume brings together a host of scholars in the fields of European studies and international relations whose contributions offer both innovative theoretical perspectives and new empirical insights. Overall, the book emphasizes the question of the EU's evolving legitimacy and efficiency as a foreign policy and diplomatic actor on the regional and global stage. This shared concern is clearly reflected in the book's three-pronged structure: Part 1, 'The EU: a controversial global political actor in an emergent multipolar world', with contributions from a Gamble, M. Telò and J. Howorth; Part 2, 'After the Lisbon Treaty: the Common Foreign and Security Policy and the European External Action Service', includes chapters from C. Lequesne, C. Carta and H. Mayer; Part 3, 'R. Gillespie, F. Ponjaert, G. Grevi, Z. Chen, H. Nakamura and U. Salma Bava assess the CFSP and the EU's external relations in action', foreword by S. E. M. P. Vimont. As a result, the book is a useful and relevant contribution to European Union studies and international relations research and teaching. It offers any interested party informed and comprehensive insights into EU foreign policy at a time when it seeks to undertake an increased role in world affairs and this despite economic crisis
