sometimes a writer so perfectly captures the reality of our lives that we are given a new way of seeing ourselves mary morris has accomplished this in a mother s love a novel about the solitary moral courage of a woman raising a child alone ivy slovak is a jewelry designer and artist whose days are absorbed by the struggle to make an unreliable paycheck cover the needs of her infant son and whose nights are broken by the demands of her newborn child eager to rejoin the world she sees outside her window ivy is haunted by the memory of her mother who abandoned her when she was seven years old she recalls the years spent with her loving but itinerant father wandering the desert hoping somehow to find the troubled beautiful woman who had left them both moving seamlessly between ivy s colorful past in the gambling towns of the southwest and her difficult present in new york city mary morris ponders through ivy how we learn to be mothers and illustrates the resilience of all both men and women who raise children either on their own or with a mate with quiet eloquence and deep compassion a mother s love speaks directly to our hearts at the same time it takes a serious look at the complex fabric of the american family and returns mary morris to her deserved place as one of the foremost chroniclers of the secrets and strengths of the human spirit many a loving mother has had fleeting feelings of hatred toward her children the desire to hurl a howling baby out the window or to lock a teenager out of the house in this provocative book rozsika parker argues that these ambivalent feelings not only are common but can actually have a creative impact on mothering mother love mother hate boldly illustrates how a mother s desire for devotion coexists with the impulse to hurt and desert parents will find parker s insight into the conflicts that beset them illuminating and deeply reassuring reversing the conventional psychoanalytic approach in which maternal ambivalence has been understood chiefly from the point of view of the child this book gives precedence to the mother s perspective drawing on interviews with mothers with a material from her practice as a psychoanalytic psychotherapist and a wide range of psychoanalytic
